FOREWORD

This Descriptive Classified Catalog has been prepared, to aid members of the Kodascope Libraries, in selecting Library Films.

Kodascope Films are 16 m/m (\(\frac{5}{8}\) inch) in width and are made only on slow burning film, which is free from insurance restrictions and does not require a fireproof booth.

A full reel of Kodascope Film is approximately 400 feet in length and has the same number of “frames” or pictures as a standard 1,000-foot reel of theatrical size film. It requires the same length of time for projection at normal speed—16 minutes.

Suggestions to Members

A Film Library is like a Book Library in that it is subject to constantly changing demands for the subjects in its possession. Unlike a Public Library, however, a Film Library is a business institution, which must earn its expenses and a fair return upon the capital invested, and it is quite evident that this can be done only by keeping the films continually in use. This means that the Members cannot send in a list of subjects desired, and expect to get all of them at once. In selecting subjects, Members are urged to send in a list with two or three alternates, otherwise the Librarians will be compelled to substitute subjects of which some may not be as satisfactory to the Members.

To assist in an intelligent selection of subjects with the least necessary effort subjects in the Kodascope Libraries are arranged in eight classes as follows:

Where two or more subjects are combined on a single reel, each subject is given an independent number corresponding to its class. Subjects will not be divided and shipped in parts.
Members will obtain greater satisfaction from the regular weekly use of a definite number of reels than from the desultory or occasional use of an irregular number.

Five reels make a very popular program. Most of the features are of that length, and will not be divided. Also, with five reels an excellent miscellaneous program can be selected, covering a variety of subjects. However, programs of any length can be obtained.

If for any reason, Members having regular weekly service wish to suspend one or more shipments, it is only necessary to advise the Librarian to that effect, before the scheduled shipments are made.

Explanation of Film Service Charges

The principal item of expense to a Film Library is the replacement of the film. The continuous use of a Library film causes it gradually to wear out. This wear may not be apparent for a long time, but eventually those films—new today—will have to be replaced by others. Therefore, rental charges must cover the inspection, repair and eventual replacement.

It is quite evident that no Kodascope Library can afford the transportation charges and loss of time incidental to furnishing a program to a Member in a distant city, for the same price that it could receive from each of two or more local Members who could use it during the same period of time.

Therefore, the charges for film service depend on the Member's distance from the Library.

The basing rate shown in this catalog is for one day's use within any Library’s city limits (local zone).

For reels held more than one day, in any zone, add 50% to the basing rate for each extra day held, whether used or not. (See “Films Ordered for Particular Date” on page 6.)

For points outside of any Library City but in the first and second postal zones (0-150 miles), add 10% of the basing rate (unless carried in both directions).

For points in the third and fourth zones (150-600 miles) add 25% of the basing rate.

For the fifth and sixth zones (600-1400 miles) add 50% of the basing rate.

For the seventh and eighth zones (over 1400 miles) add 75% of the basing rate.

At the rates quoted for the various postal zones, Kodascope Libraries make no charge for loss of time in transit and rentals are charged for reels only while in the Member’s possession.

Transportation by parcel post is included in above rates and will be paid by the Kodascope Branch Libraries.

A minimum charge of $1.50 will be made for any Film Service rendered.

Note: Minor repairs, such as breaks, cleaning, etc., will be made by the Kodascope Libraries without charge, but serious injury will be charged to the Member.
Purpose of Membership Fee

At its inception the Kodascope Library faced the alternative of establishing a completely equipped credit department, or the simpler requirement of a Membership Fee. The former plan would have necessitated increasing our basing rentals on Film Service to cover its cost, together with that of the extra bookkeeping involved and an occasional loss through the fallibility of any credit system.

It was decided that a cash business at the lowest price, with a small Membership Fee, would be more satisfactory to our large number of Members from all over the United States, many of whom would necessarily be mail order customers. Several years of experience have very happily justified this policy. Any other arrangement than a Membership Fee would require an increase in the entire schedule of basing rates of rental.

This Membership Fee of $25.00 is refundable upon request to Members in good standing who wish to discontinue film service.

Members enjoy a discount of 10% from the published catalog rates.

The $25.00 Membership Fee justifies the Library in starting film service, but is not applicable to the payment of current bills.

Library Service to Non-Members

Although Kodascope Libraries are operated primarily for the benefit of Members enrolled, non-members who can establish satisfactory credit rating may obtain film service at rates published in this Descriptive Catalog.

Non-members pay only the rentals published in the catalog (without the extra 10% formerly added.)

Paying for Film Service

Whenever films are returned to the Library, a charge for their rental will be mailed and should be paid at once, to avoid possible interruption of Film Service.

Why Rental is Charged for Every Day Held

The profits of a Film Library depend upon the continuous earnings of its films; idle films make no profit.

The fact that a customer holding films may not be using them does not lessen his responsibility.

A taxi waiting for you at the door; a forgotten gas jet burning in the cellar; money borrowed from a bank, even though unused; idle films on your closet shelf; all have to be paid for whether you derive any benefit from them or not. The taxi driver, the gas company, the bank, and the film library are equally entitled to their proper charges for service rendered.

Films Ordered for a Particular Date

The Kodascope Libraries cannot accept responsibility for unusual delays in Parcel Post, but films ordered for a particular date are shipped by us far enough in advance to allow for all reasonable delays. Frequently these reels arrive a day, or even two days, before the date wanted. If they are held by the customer, used only on the date for which they were ordered and returned to us the following day, only a single day’s charge will be made.

If, however, the customer wishes to use them before the particular date he may do so, but in this case they must be returned the day following such use if only a single day’s charge is to be made.
In other words, films ordered for a particular date cannot be used both on the particular date and also on one or more previous (or following) days, without paying for all the days on which the films are used.

Members are urged to fill in the spaces on the return label showing the date on which the films were sent back to the Library. This date is accepted by the Library as a basis for billing and careful attention to this important detail will avoid misunderstandings.

Mail orders will be acknowledged if requested.

Ordering Films By Telegraph

Members in good credit standing can always order Library subjects by telegraph with the assurance that such orders will receive immediate and careful attention, if received in time to be filled during regular office hours.

In order to shorten these telegrams, we have prepared a code which can be easily used.

If the subjects are desired for showing on a certain day, it is only necessary to mention the day of the week as the first word in the message.

For each subject selected, at least two alternates should be listed, and for such alternates the code word should be prefixed with “or”———both written as a single word. For each additional subject wanted the code word should be prefixed with “and”———both written as a single word.

If the subjects are ordered by telegraph on very short notice, so that it is doubtful if they can reach their destination by ordinary parcel post, the subscriber who wishes to avail himself of the advantages of “Special Delivery” (which includes Special Handling) can signify such attention by using the single word “Delivery.”

As an example of the advantages of this abbreviated system of ordering, take the following ordinary telegraphic form:

“Please ship me for showing Monday evening Little Church Around the Corner or Where the North Begins or Heart of a Hero and Adventurer or Easy Street or Felix in the Bone Age special delivery.”

Abbreviated as outlined above, this message would read:

In ordering by wire, do not forget that to avoid disappointment or substitution, it is necessary to select alternates, or if you prefer to leave the selection of substitutes to the Librarian, add the single word “Substitute.” This the Librarian will understand to mean that you wish a substitute from the same class of subjects in which the selected subject is not available.

To avoid disappointment by delays in transit, it is better when ordering subjects either by letter or by wire, to allow at least one day more than would usually be necessary for ordinary parcel post transmission.

If a particular subject is desired and no alternate or substitute will be acceptable, then it is desirable for the member to make such reservation a week or two in advance, requesting definite acceptance if possible.

With a few exceptions Kodascope Library subjects may be purchased. Prices will be quoted on application. Reels sold are not returnable.

Films in Color

For years you have enjoyed in the theatres the magnificent pictures in color which reproduce nature in entrancing realism. Probably you have often wished that you could secure these color productions for your home enjoyment.

Now this treat is available to every owner of a 16 mm projector, without adding any accessory of any kind to your projector. The color is in the film! Furthermore, these color films project almost as large and bright screen images as plain black and white films.

The added attraction which these new Kodascope Color Subjects will have for home audiences is incalculable. Scenes from these subjects will be like animated paintings on your home screen—beautiful stories, colorfully told. Additional Color Subjects will be added as rapidly as the demand justifies.

MAUD MULLER

Beautiful dramatization of Whittier’s poem with its youthful glamour and reminiscent regret. Sumptuous settings in charming colors. See page 204.

ROMANY LOVE

Romance of a gypsy swain and his sweetheart (coveted by the chief), in all the colorful environment of the caravan and the camp-fire. See page 204.

MISSION BELLS

The following comedies have color sequences:

The Film Prayer

By A. P. Hollis

I am film, not steel; O user, have mercy. I front dangers whenever I travel the whirring wheels of mechanism. Over the sprocket wheels, held tight by the idlers, I am forced by the motor's might. If a careless hand mistreads me, I have no alternative but to go to my death. If the pull on the take-up reel is too violent, I am torn to shreds. If dirt collects in the aperture, my film of beauty is streaked and marred, and I must face my beholders—a thing ashamed and bespoiled. Please, if I break, never fasten me with pins which lacerate the fingers of my inspectors. Don't rewind me—my owner wants that privilege, so that he may examine me, heal my wounds, and send me rejuvenated upon a fresh mission.

I travel many miles in tin cans. I am tossed on heavy trucks, sideways and upside down. Please see that my first few coils do not slip loose in my shipping case, and become bruised and wounded beyond the power to heal. Put me in my own can. Scrape off all old labels on my shipping case so I will not go astray.

Speed me on my way. Others are waiting to see me. The next day is the last day I should be held. Have a heart for the other fellow who is waiting, and for my owner who will get the blame.

I am a delicate ribbon of film—misuse me and I disappoint thousands; cherish me, and I delight and instruct the world.

TRAVEL, SPORTS, MANNERS AND CUSTOMS

1000 Code CABA  Wild Animals of Africa  Chester-Outing

The party of white hunters and cameramen accompanied by African natives who are shown first in a native war dance, set out from Nairobi in search of wild animals and animal pictures, passing a small drove of native cows as they embark. Their first find is a drove of Zebras, then Water-buck, Giraffes (one of which is captured), Gnu, Buffaloes, the Eland, Spring-bok and Impalla are found. Finally a successful lion hunt results in the capture of a huge lion and lioness. An enjoyable and instructive subject with clever titles by Katherine Hilliker.

To quote the narrator, "the Rapids of British Guiana lead a scandalously fast life." We find this true on a long journey through the turbulent rushing waters—only the skill of the boatmen averting shipwreck on the jagged rocks in our course. No sport for weak nerves this, but for others it furnishes thrill after thrill. We are rewarded also by intimate glimpses into the lives of primitive Patamomans Indians, and see them weaving cloth, making baskets, cultivating sugar cane and crushing the stalks, making tapioca, which is one of their main food staples, and also see their ingenious method of wringing out the poisonous juices as this food is in course of preparation for eating.

The natives live in jungle homes made of branches and covered with thatched roofs—the more pretentious ones being of two stories.

Journeying on, we pass the beautiful Three Day Lake, named from the fact that its beauty enchanted the Princess who discovered it, so that for three days she gazed in rapture, forgetting either to eat or sleep.

The Kongo River flows through the middle of the valley, being fed by waterfalls, some of which we are permitted to see. The Flying Phoenix and the Fall of the Nine Dragons are wonderfully picturesque and fall from great height.

With the cameraman we climb to the Pinnacle of the Clouds, from which we gain an extensive view of the wild, mountainous country. And descending again we get our final view of Kongo San from the sea.

A most interesting travel scenic. Much of the trip was taken by boat along the labyrinthine canal system which covers much of the country. The first part of the trip is over a canal which was old as long ago as 486 B. C. Myriads of boats are seen everywhere, and an innumerable number of very picturesque arch bridges span the canals at frequent intervals. One junk-boat-building establishment looks as if it could furnish all the boats required in China. Riverside laundries are seen everywhere, and towing barges by man power seems to be a favorite method of transportation. A curious irrigating pump worked by coolies as a treadmill is followed by pictures of duck growing, fishing and picturesque sailing junks. The leaning Pagoda of Su-Chow is reminiscent of the Leaning Tower of Pisa.

Children of Holland

A visit to the quaint and picturesque city of Volendam, Holland, where our attention is drawn to the children in their baggy trousers, wooden shoes and winged caps. We see them at work and at play, rolling hoops, playing football, etc. Their stiff wooden shoes affect their walk, giving the children a peculiar gait. They are very particular to leave their shoes at the door when entering the house.

The streets are really the brick-paved tops of dikes which keep the water from overflowing this extremely low flat country. There are no autos on the streets nor do we see any beasts of burden or other means of transportation. Apparently "Shanks' mare" performs this service for rich and poor alike. Many of the men are fishermen on the Zuider Zee and their picturesque boats line the wharves.

We visit Marken, a small island nearby, and observe slight differences in its costumes from those of Volendam, though the general characteristics are the same and as in Volendam we see children everywhere. An instructive and fascinating journey to an unusually interesting land.

All about llamas. A remarkable, sure-footed beast of burden used in the upper Andes in South America.

Several long trains of these sure-footed beasts are seen winding along precipitous trails through wonderful mountain scenery.

Some of the queer habits and characteristics of the animals are shown, among others the fact that a herd of llamas can be entirely confined by a single rope passing around the outside of the herd resting on their bodies, but confining only their necks. It seems that the stupid beasts lack the intelligence to lower their heads and pass under the rope.

The title apparently comes from the name given to one of the llamas. An interesting travel scenic.

Mont Blanc, the "Fool Killer," in the Swiss Alps, is 15,781 feet high. With Frederick Burlington, who has scaled it four times, we set out from Chamonix toward the Great Mules, or rock pyramids at its base, passing first the Glacier des Bossons and then the Arve, an icy river flowing from the Mer de Glace.

Climbing the Brevent on mules and stopping en route to pick huckleberries we come to the Aiguille du Midi, which is over 12,000 feet high and is part of the same chain as Mont Blanc. We are now at the level where the snow never melts, but keep on and after much effort attain our objective.

A final view through a telescope shows us climbers attaining a hazardous position at the very summit of the rocky peak.

A visit to the fascinating Islands of Japan where our wanderings take us among the Japanese children of all ages. "Little mothers" of eight or ten years are playing with their baby brothers or sisters strapped on their backs. Other little Jap girls are in a dancing lesson, still other youngsters playing chess, balancing on a swinging log, etc. Two little rich girls go thru the formality of eating supper under the watchful eye of their governess and then their couch is brought in and spread upon the floor and they go to bed with their heads uncomfortably propped up on a high bolster so that their hair will not be disarranged.

1062 Code CAMI Among the Araucanians Chester

This is a tribe of Indians dwelling back from the seashore in the mountains of Chile. The subject opens with several views of the boat starting to visit the land of the Araucanians. Leaving the ship and climbing into the mountains, we see first very large herds of sheep and then reach the village of thatched huts which is the home of the tribe. Their home life is portrayed and several views quite interestingly show the various stages in the making of large earthenware jars. Next we witness a fiesta, which is given to celebrate the initiation of a medicine woman of the tribe. Coarse jewelry made by the natives from the silver mined in the neighborhood is of passing interest, but the most interesting scenes are the weaving of native baskets in a very skillful and highly artistic manner. The closing scenes consist of some perfectly magnificent waterfalls, but unfortunately the name of the river is not given.

A trip to Alaska with a party of campers in search of gold. The journey is made by boat, by auto, by horse and on foot. Wonderful views of icebergs, glaciers, snow-capped mountains and mile after mile of rugged Alaskan forests which the campers penetrate to the headwaters of the Simms River. Though unsuccessful in their quest for gold the campers find an abundance of caribou, mountain sheep and other game, and finally return to civilization with their pack horses loaded with trophies of the hunt.

1065 Code CAMAR Cold Shoulders and Warm Welcomes Chester

A visit to St. Croix in the West Indies. Upon our arrival in this beautiful harbor we are met by native boatmen who bring their oxen with them to help land the small boats. In the market place we see the natives in gala attire, and then go on into the sugar fields where we watch them gathering sugar cane. This country produces the finest sugar in the whole world. The cane is put on small cars on little sugar railroads which bring the stalks from the fields right into the refineries. Some of the cars are pulled by mules and others by little engines. The old and new methods of crushing sugar cane and extracting the juice are illustrated. Later we are privileged to see a hunting party with hounds and horses which, being unsuccessful in its quest of a fox, resorts to a sport peculiar to this island, and decidedly surprising to the onlooker. After enjoying a dance at the hotel in the evening we see from the hotel porch a native dance on the hotel lawn. We prefer the hotel dance, thank you, but are glad to have seen the other as well. Very excellent photography.

1067 Code CAMIR Mississippi's Water Baby Chester

A trip to Lake Itasca, Minnesota, the source of the great Mississippi River. In the beginning of this picture are some of the most beautiful cloud effects that have ever been filmed. The country is wild and lovely and abounds in game, some of which is kept in great game preserves. In one of these we see deer making remarkable jumps over a high rail fence. They seem to float thru the air and are wonderfully graceful. On a small bay a flock of wild ducks are swimming; near by is an Indian Reservation; still further on we see beavers industriously building their dams and houses. Then we have a thrill—a forest fire approaches and we follow its deadly course, watching the attempts to check it and seeing it drive the unsuccessful fighters from their homes.

This film is well worth while. Not only does it offer beautiful scenery and good photography, but some unusual sights as well.

Introducing our national game of baseball and showing its tremendous appeal to vast multitudes. Babe Ruth is shown at the bat and making a home run. The reporters are shown transmitting the news over wires to 100 cities, while thousands of spectators applaud from the grandstand. Next are shown the tremendous crowds standing in front of the newspaper bulletin boards at distant points watching the progress of the game.

From this we are transported to the great open spaces, with an entirely different kind of sport. First, bird shooting with splendid pictures of a pointer and a setter working in the fields and retrieving the game which is shot by the sportsman. An old Kentucky squirrel hunter is shown with his muzzle loading rifle. Next, in the Canadian wilds, is shown the calling and shooting of a bull moose.

The spectator is conducted in turn through each of these beautiful National Parks, where he sees El Capitan, Mirror Lake, Glacier Point, the giant Redwood trees and the other wonders of Yosemite. A herd of elk and three tame deer are shown in charming close-ups.

At the Grand Canyon in New Mexico we are taken a mile (vertically) down the Bright Angel Trail to the bottom of the Canyon, where we cross the river on a frail suspension bridge. Numerous interesting views are shown of the Canyon and its peculiar geological formation, also a Hopi Indian Settlement.

In the Rocky Mountain National Park is shown a beautiful view of the village of Estes Park, nestled cosily in a valley surrounded by towering mountains. From there we are taken on a motor bus to an elevation of more than two miles above sea level, where we are treated to a snowball fight on a summer snowbank. In Japan we do not need a guide to find interesting things to see. Turn where we may, they confront us. Wandering down to the wharf we watch the people with confetti and paper streamers bidding goodbye to the departing passengers. Our attention is then taken by the numerous freight boats which fill the harbor—one man boats many of them—whose crews and their families live on board. A train pulls in, its woman stoker hard at work. Human labor must be cheap. Here is a gang of women operating a pile-driver, and furnishing all the motive power to raise the heavy weight. The men also work hard, and we see them hauling wagons and carts over the poor roads. Babies are everywhere, generally strapped on the back of their mothers. They look strong and well and we are shocked to learn that 350 out of every 1,000 die before the age of five.

passengers enter and take seats in the roomy cabin. Each is allowed fifty pounds of baggage.

Approaching London we have a marvelous view of the Houses of Parliament, Westminster Bridge with its Big Ben Tower and the other prominent buildings, which as we rapidly pass them stand out with stereoscopic effect. On we fly over the English farming country with its hedges and well tilled fields until over Beachy Head, we have our last glimpse of England. Then tea is served, and in a few minutes having passed a return plane, La Belle France comes into view. Again we pass over a wonderful countryside consisting of small, intensively cultivated farms, and for a long distance we follow a famous old road built centuries ago by Caesar and still in constant use. Then we reach our destination, and after an easy landing we alight in Paris only two and a half hours after leaving London.

An extremely interesting subject. Photography excellent.

A fascinating trip to the mountains in central California, a region of wild and rugged scenery, of canyons and valleys and of towering mountain peaks, one hundred and forty-one of which are snow-capped. There are neither railroads nor roads. Saddle and pack animals are the only means of transportation.

With a party of well equipped campers and guides we start our trip, passing Devil’s Post-pile, Pilot Knob, Bishop Pass, Jackass Meadow, Mammoth Peak and other points of grandeur and beauty until we reach Mt. Humphrey, 14,000 feet high. Continuing, we see Graveyard Peaks, Silver Pass, Devil’s Washbasin, the Minarets, beautiful Shadow Lake, and finally Mt. Ritter, also 14,000 feet in height. On account of the inaccessibility of the region, these sights are actually seen by comparatively few of the travelers to California, and this film offers to all an opportunity to see what the majority would otherwise miss.

The trail leads down to Vernal Falls, past Nevada Falls and Clark’s Point where we are enveloped in mist from the falls. Reaching Glacier Point, our guide phones back to report our safe arrival while we enjoy a few minutes breathing spell. Then on to Overhanging Rock with a wonderful view of Yosemite Falls in the distance. After passing Half Dome we turn back over Four Mile Trail, pass Union Point and at last reach El Capitan at the end of our trip. This trip is so strenuous that not all, even of those who do go to the Yosemite, are able to take it. But this picture brings to all an opportunity to view in comfort the awe-inspiring Yosemite country.

From the Field and Stream series of sports pictures

The wild turkey is the wariest bird that flies and great skill and patience are required in hunting him. Setting out with guides from the lodge of the Woodmont Rod and Gun Club in western Maryland, we tramp through the snow to the turkey rendezvous. Here we hide in the underbrush and after waiting until we are all but chilled through, we are rewarded by a splendid shot which brings down our first bag. This is followed by others, and we return to the lodge hungry and laden with turkeys.

Rain holds us indoors for three days, after which with the snow all gone, we again sally forth—this time with even more success. And on the way home we are interested spectators while the gamekeepers dig out a fox which has been making inroads on the turkey population.

field. All they apparently have in common is a love for flying—but before their course ends and they become full-fledged fliers, they are fast friends, each willing to take any risk for the other.

The picture has a human interest appeal in addition to being an unusually complete and well-photographed film of how the Government is training men for both army and commercial aviation. All the hopes and disappointments, the feats and thrills, that the two students experience are worked into the picture so effectively that you find yourself sharing their emotions, wondering

Fish from Hell
Independent

This picture was made by a group of wealthy sportsmen, off the West Coast of Mexico—the fisherman's paradise.

An 800-pound tuna is the first large fish sighted, and caught on a rod and reel. A shark attacks the hooked tuna and there develops a three-cornered battle, man versus tuna, tuna versus shark. The tuna is finally brought aboard. Now, to get the shark! Which is accomplished after another stirring battle.

Then comes the harpooning of a giant manta weighing several tons. After towing the boat the manta turns, plunges against the rowboat and capsizes it, throwing the men into the shark-infested waters, from which they are rescued.

A diver is sent down and is photographed by the special under-sea camera amid the beauties of the ocean—truly a dreamland. Suddenly and octopus appears behind the diver. A native boy dives down to warn the diver, who forthwith discards his heavy helmet and boots, and escapes to the surface—all clearly shown through the under-sea camera.

Then comes a fight between a 120-foot whale, weighing over 100 tons, who is attacked by his deadly enemy, a 15-foot swordfish. After this fight has been raging for some time, the whale is harpooned, brought alongside and big gaping wounds made by the swordfish are seen by the under-sea camera as sharks tear at the wounds. Then the sportsmen go after this demon swordfish with rod and reel. After he is hooked, the greatest fishing picture ever made shows the tremendous leaps of this swordfish, time and again, entirely clear of the surface and sometimes executing complete barrel-rolls while in the air! Finally, he is brought to grips alongside the small boat by one of the daring fishermen, who is shown hauling him aboard with his bare hands, after a terrific struggle in which the result is long in doubt.

A series of dissolves shows Washington from the air; the District of Columbia, the Capitol area are located on a relief map; views follow of the Capitol and grounds, the Library of Congress, Pennsylvania Avenue, and the Columbus Memorial.

Various places of interest are located on a map, and are then pictured. Scenes include the Treasury building, the State, War and Navy building, the White House, the Ellipse, and the Pan-American Union building.

The Botanic Gardens, the Mall, Smithsonian Institution, National Museum, Washington Monument, Tidal Basin, Potomac River, and Lincoln Memorial are first located on a map and are then pictured from various angles.

1501 Code CARBE Glacier National Park

Our great public recreational center in northwestern Montana is shown, with its scenic wonders and fascinating sports.

Unit 1 pictures the park, trail riders, a glacial lake, and locates the national parks of the Western United States. Features of the region are illustrated by views of glaciers, glaciated valleys, and Iceberg Lake.

Unit 2 pictures some of the more than one hundred and fifty known varieties of flowers found in a park; shows how wild life is protected; and includes scenes of beavers, a woodchuck, and a mountain sheep.

Unit 3 portrays Indian life in the park, including views of an encampment.

Unit 4 contains views of visitors arriving at Glacier Park Hotel, Mt. Grinnell, Many Glacier Hotel, typical park dining rooms and dormitories, permanent tent camps, and scenes of riding, mountain climbing, and fishing parties.

1502 Code CARBI Rocky Mountain Mammals

Mammals of the Rocky Mountain region are depicted living in zones where food, shelter and climatic conditions are favorable.

On the drawing of a typical mountain, a series of four life zones are traced, one above the other. In the zones of open plains, herds of antelope graze. Men dig young coyotes from their den.

In the lower timberland we see browsing mule deer, a young buck beginning to grow antlers, a mountain lion, grizzly bear, pack rat and cony.

In the dwarf timber zone mountain sheep are seen moving down to winter feeding places. The mountain marmot sits erect on a rocky slope.

High above the timber line mountain goats pick their way over ice and along ledges. Kids follow their mothers among the cliffs, feeding on the scanty vegetation of the barren heights.

2000 Code DABA Abalone Pearl Fishing

Bray

The Abalone is a shell fish something like a very large oyster, but having a much more beautiful shell. It is obtained by divers, in the Pacific Ocean off the southwestern boundary of the United States. The diving boats and the divers are shown above the surface of the water, but not at all in the depths. The devil fish and octopus is frequently encountered in these waters and a small specimen is shown on the deck of the diving boat.

What are known as "free" pearls are found in the tissue of the Abalone, and what are known as "blister" pearls are found attached to the interior shell surface. Both are formed by a deposit of nacre or the iridescent pearl substance secreted by the Abalone to encase some foreign irritating substance like a grain of sand, which accidentally finds its way into the shell, where it irritates the occupant until rendered innocuous by this deposit, which in time becomes a pearl.

Here are some remarkable pictures of these frenzied salmon, not only swimming upstream, but actually up through and over waterfalls that would kill a man.

It is while they are crowding in the rivers, fighting their way up to the spawning grounds, that they are caught and sent to the canneries, which are part of Alaska’s greatest industries.

Showing a number of animals with special reference to their appetites and methods of feeding. The first animal shown is the Pygmy Hippopotamus, followed by a bear being fed molasses from a spoon. Next we see the Fur Seals and are told that they can digest one-third of their weight in fish every day. Then a Mother Wolf with puppies and some close-ups of one of the wolf pups with an Airedale eating from the same dish. Then follow some animal stunts such as the Bison making his wallow of dust to free himself from vermin; the Giraffe drinking, as an evidence that water can be made to run uphill; a Monkey apparently engaged in earnest conversation and some very beautiful little Flying Squirrels from the Antipodes. Among rarities is shown an Australian Marsupial Bear, who looks for all the world like one of our toy Teddy Bears. Next a pygmy elephant is shown and the comparison drawn with the ordinary species. One of the interesting scenes is of a thoroughly domesticated groundhog who assists the keeper in gathering papers left upon the lawn at the Zoo.

Taken altogether this is one of the most interesting zoological pictures in the Library, and the photography is particularly excellent.

comes down and there are numerous pictures of him being fed various delicacies, particularly syrup from a bottle. Several Chipmunks are shown, and their quick movements are almost beyond the ability of the camera to depict. Next are several scenes with Deer, including one Doe so tame that it wanders up and down the main street of the village, turning out for traffic. A herd of Elk is shown and a mother Grouse so tame that she roosts upon the director’s arm and feeds from his other hand. Other birds illustrated are the Water Ousel with its peculiar nervous bobbing motion, a Robin with its nest, a Fly Catcher and some baby Thrushes before they have their eyes open and later when about half grown.

The photography of this subject was taken under very difficult conditions, and is not altogether perfect, but the unique subject compensates in some degree for this defect. It will be appreciated by nature lovers and others interested in wild life of the sort described.

In this, however, he is easily surpassed by the Kangaroo who follows. Then the Wild Horse of Thibet is shown as one of the most vicious of wild animals, in his attempt to attack a man up a tree and later in tearing a dummy man to shreds. The Russian Stag is shown to be about equally vicious. Then the Tapir is shown with its peculiar markings, followed by a couple of Alpacas who look very much like young Llamas. <td>A good, though slapstick comedy, taken in a lumber mill and full of dynamite, danger, daring, and typical Semon stunts. There is the usual pursuit over roofs and over lumber piles, up tall trees, derricks and elevators. Larry's gigantic swing on a rope from the top of a falling tree is only one of the thrills. Thinness of plot is more than compensated for in variety and speed of action. You'll like it.</td>

<td>An amusing comedy full of typical Semon stunts. His efforts to learn to play golf in his home are disastrous to the furniture. So he goes to the golf club where we see some very clever play with the ball—not by Larry but by a ground squirrel which continually causes it to disappear from the edge of one hole and reappear near another, while Larry stands between them hoping for a chance to drive. Other comedy is furnished by a negro caddy who, when frightened by a bear, seems glued to the ground. Too many stunts to describe. Full of action. One of the funniest of his comedies.</td>

The Champion

Essanay

Featuring Charlie Chaplin

Charlie, while walking along the street, trips over a horseshoe. As he is examining it, he glances up and sees a sign: “Sparring partners wanted who can take a punch.”

Putting his good luck emblem under his coat he goes in and joins the others who are waiting to be tried out as to their ability in boxing. One after another, they are knocked out. Charlie’s turn drawing near, he slips the horseshoe in his boxing glove, with the result that his opponent receives a blow which knocks him out, and Charlie is the chosen one for the boxing meet.

During the days of practice which follow before the eventful night of the meet, when Charlie is proclaimed “Champion,” there are some typical Chaplin stunts which will keep even a sleepy onlooker alert.

In the ancient Arabian Nights version the story of Aladdin was limited to a single evening. Youth of the 20th century is insatiable and here we have More Adventures.

Know ye then, that on their wedding eve, the Magic Lamp is again stolen from Aladdin by the villain, Al Talib, and at his command the princess is abducted from the palace by the Slave of the Lamp. She is carried hastily by camel caravan across the desert, closely followed by Aladdin, also on a camel. A terrible sand storm overtakes the travelers, who barely survive. After the storm, Al Talib summons the Slave of the Lamp, who promptly constructs a beautiful palace for the princess, in which the villain unsuccessfully presses his suit, even to the threat of throwing her to the lions if she remains obdurate. The sultan’s Bedouins, searching for the lost princess, discover Aladdin perishing of thirst on the desert and together they spur onward to the rescue of the princess, arriving just in time to save her and destroy the villain. And so Aladdin and the princess were married and lived happily ever after.

Several assignments turn out disastrously, but ludicrously. Then she gets her great chance—to interview an art collector, Tully Marshall, who has just acquired a $50,000 bracelet. Notoriously impervious to interviewers, his room is crashed by Dorothy in a clever disguise, and Tully yields gracefully. He even shows her the bracelet, but while she is writing his story, an organ-grinder's monkey enters the window, steals the bracelet, and scrambles up the outside wall of the hotel. Dorothy, accused of stealing the bracelet, eludes the house detectives and pursues the monkey, outrisking any other human fly in her desperate scaling of story after story of the hotel front. Walter, frantically summons the fire company with their nets, and later brings truck loads of mattresses to break her probable fall. The monkey with the bracelet, climbing to dizzy heights, is always just a few feet ahead of Dorothy and the house detectives about as far behind.

Featuring Charley Chase, Eugenia Gilbert, Eugene Pallette, Bull Montana

Charley and his wife live happily together, but his brother Eugene and the latter's wife quarrel constantly. In order to shame them, Charley and his wife pretend to quarrel, too. The mock quarrel is overheard by his brother's French waitress, who had just informed her jealous husband, the butler, that a man had hugged her. Believing that Charley is the man, the Butler accuses him and threatens to kill him. The maid flees to Charley's home to seek sympathy from his maid.

Charley, seeking to escape, is overtaken by the butler just as he reaches home and together they enter the supposedly empty house to talk it over. The two groups (the maids and the men), soon realize that they are not alone in the house, but in spite of the rapidity of the action, they just miss seeing each other. Finally, Eugene and the two wives arrive and all the characters are suddenly brought together. Explanations. Happy ending for Charley. Not so happy for Eugene. A real good comedy.

Will, living 'way out in the great open spaces on the White Horse Ranch, is sent to town for a bottle of Doane's Horse Liniment. He hitches up the team and starts on his errand.

In town he finds horses so much out of date that he acquires a Ford car, after leaving his team tied to a police traffic Stop-Go sign.

His troubles begin when he tries to find a parking place in town after town and city after city. Not being able to park near a drug store in either Ogden or Salt Lake, we find him in Oakland, where he is told about a week before there was a place in San Francisco. He hastens there, only to be disappointed again. His route is then to Los Angeles by way of New Orleans and El Paso. He continually runs into the toils of the police and acquires a collection of "tickets" which would make even a museum proud to own. The only place where he avoids the police is Seattle—where he goes through at night.

The interest is enhanced by the characteristic remarks Will makes throughout the picture.

Hubby and wife criticize each other’s efficiency and decide to exchange work for the day. Wife starts for hubby’s court, leaving hubby to do the washing, clean the house, care for the baby, etc. Hubby enthusiastically starts in. The first blow falls when the cook, receiving his orders, announces that she is leaving, and promptly does so. Washing machine and vacuum cleaner troubles develop—ludicrously and tragically—as well as destructive activity of the dog and the baby. Hubby is in despair. When wife returns she finds home a wreck. She had been serenely enjoying a matinee, since it was a business holiday and the court was closed—a fact which hubby had entirely forgotten!

it is one of the most amazing pictures they have ever seen. Chimpanzees comprise the cast. It is a complete story with a real plot and many laughter provoking situations.

As one watches this picture on a screen, he wonders how the producer ever had the patience to put these animal actors through the various stunts which they perform. Many of these stunts show almost human intelligence and one feels that the actors have actually grasped the humor of the situation and are doing their best to make the spectators enjoy their efforts.

The comic possibilities of this situation are at once apparent. The cast makes the most of these possibilities and the many rural absurdities which are worked into such an environment will keep any audience in an uproar.

There is considerable of a plot, too, which has to do with an eccentric will with the old familiar clause "marry the girl, or lose the money."

Select plenty of alternates
The plot has to do with the suppression of a gang of harbor thieves by Semon and his partner, a hard-boiled Central Office man. Larry falls very much in love with a beautiful girl, who helps to subdue the gang but who, at the end, turns out to be his partner's wife.

The reel is replete with thrilling action and spontaneous comedy. A spectacular chase through the maze of streets and alleys along the harbor front furnishes much of the comedy, and a breath-taking dive from the yard-arm of a vessel adds a genuine thrill.

This comedy is just a little above the high average set by all of Mr. Semon's efforts and is a most welcome addition to any entertainment.

His hostess is overjoyed at his acceptance and sends our host, in disgust, to welcome him. The welcome is extended by three husky longshoremen, paid to fix him so that “he will not be able to dance for several weeks.” Charley overcomes his assailants and, wearing some workmen’s clothes, is invited home by the host, who believes him to be safely out of the way, to impersonate himself.

Many amusing situations follow each other rapidly. Charley’s identity is finally disclosed, he turns out to be the kind of count dad prefers and he wins the girl.

A very amusing conception of life in the Stone Age, although somewhat slapstick. “King Ferdinand” issues a proclamation that males over 13 and under 95 must marry within 24 hours. Hardy, dressed in skins and carrying a club, reads the proclamation and sets out to comply, boasting that it won’t take long. He finds that all his prospects have husbands who stand in his way.

Laurel arrives on the scene and after several attempts to win maidens, we find him and Hardy engaged in a very funny combat over the same individual.

Modern touches lend interest to this caveman farce.

"King of Kings" is an elaborate and reverent attempt to use the motion picture as a means of telling the greatest story in the world.

The film drama opens with the brilliant scene in the house of Mary of Magdala, and here the elaboration of luxury is used to mark the contrast with the Magdalene’s shame and repentance when she finds herself face to face with Christ. She has gone to Him to win back her lover, Judas the betrayer. She remains to become the most faithful and devoted of His followers.

The character of Judas is developed with subtlety and skill. He sees in the Man of Nazareth a national leader who may drive out the Romans and restore a free Judea to a place among the nations. He is impatient of the all embracing pity and the care for the poor. He gradually realizes the disappointment of his hopes and that his Master dreams of a Kingdom of which he has no conception, and it is in a fury of resentment that he plays the traitor’s part in the Garden of Gethsemane, as it is in a fury of remorse that he throws down the thirty pieces of silver before the High Priest and goes out and hangs himself.

The miracles, the gentle care for children and for the lowly are shown in picture after picture. There is dramatic force in the driving of the money-changers from the Temple where Our Lord appears as a strong man filled with righteous resentment. And so the drama reaches its climax in Gethsemane, in the meeting place of the Sanhedrin, in the hall of Pilate’s palace and finally, on Mount Calvary.

Immense pains have been taken to make each character vivid and individual. Thus Peter, destined to be the leader of his brethren after his Master’s death, is shown as a gigantic, impulsive fisherman, tender of heart but infirm.

of purpose until the bitter trial of the night when he denied his Master thrice. The boy Mark is eager, inquisitive, tremendously interested. Matthew is the man of affairs, who, even when called to higher things, does not quite lose a certain shrewdness. And the Virgin Mary is a figure of infinite dignity and love, and in the end, of awful sorrow.

With our Lord Himself the producer has had to face and overcome the greatest difficulties. No artist can hope quite to represent the greatest of all figures, be he painter, poet, or actor. But this may at least be said, that in the "King of Kings" there is no unworthy suggestion of the qualities of the Saviour of the world.

Michael Angelo, famous as artist, sculptor and architect, is by many considered one of the greatest geniuses that ever lived. At the opening of this story he was at work on his statue of Moses. His fame had grown so great that rival artists were jealous and hoping that he would fail as a painter, persuaded Pope Julius the Second to command him to paint the Sistine Chapel. Michael Angelo suspected their purpose, but accepted the commission, and for four years he worked on his back painting the wonderful ceiling of the Chapel. The finished work is the greatest masterpiece that the hand of man has ever turned out. It is very large, covering the entire ceiling with a design portraying numerous biblical incidents and containing three hundred and forty-three different figures. Even his rivals were forced to acknowledge the marvelous beauty of the design and its execution. The task finished, the master returned to his statue of Moses, which now stands in the little church of San Pietro in Rome.

8001 Code SABE On the Trail Irving Cummings

Featuring Irving Cummings

This is an especially absorbing Northwest Mounted Police story laid in the picturesque Canadian Rockies. Irving Cummings, a member of the Royal Mounted, is detailed to apprehend "Long Shot" Sanderson, who has killed a brother policeman out of spite. Before Cummings can locate Sanderson and his band of outlaws, the latter waylay and rob a tourist party and abduct a young lady from the group. Cummings, learning the details of the new outrage, continues his pursuit with renewed vigor. The chase leads him to the snow covered outlaw cabin, above the Arctic Circle. By strategy and a terrific fight with Sanderson he is able to arrest the band and return the young lady to her anxious father.

This is a particularly interesting story and contains plenty of action.

Featuring Irving Cummings

Sergeant McIntosh, Corporal Jim Campbell and Private Bob Hammon are stationed in the Sweetwater Post of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police on the lookout for moonshiners. One day Corporal Jim captures a gang of three—two of them rough looking men and the third a young “boy.” The men are locked up in the Post jail, but the boy seems so young that they allow him to eat with them and also to remain outside the jail that night. Next morning they find all their prisoners gone, but right after making this discovery, the boy comes back, and explains that he was forced, through his fear of the moonshiners, to aid in their escape, although he later escaped from them and returned to the Post. To their great astonishment they then discover that the "boy" is in reality a girl who has been held in the power of the moonshiners and who tells them a pitiful story.

The men are touched and decide to do all they can to help the girl and upon the arrival of the Padre that day, they turn the girl over to him to be put in a school where she will have good care and an education. Corporal Jim gives the Padre all his small savings to be used for the various needs of the girl, Mary, while she is at the school.

The search for the moonshiners then continues and results in their capture, but not until after Corporal Jim has been shot by one of them. His recovery is greatly cheered by the letters he receives from Mary and the attachment begun under such unusual circumstances continues until four years later when she graduates from the school and the story ends as all good movies should—the young couple presumably living happily ever after.

The Young Painter
Tri-Art

Featuring Mary Astor and Pierre Gendron

Inspired by the famous painting of the same title by Rembrandt. A touching, modern story of a young painter who finds inspiration in a copy of the original painting.

His ambition to succeed in his profession is fostered by his friendship for the beautiful girl who takes art lessons from him at his studio on Long Island.

She is the daughter of wealthy parents and is beloved by a very fine young man, who was the soldier companion of the young painter during the world-war.

Realizing his inability to provide for a wife in the style that his sweetheart has been accustomed to, the artist goes away to a city studio where he befriends an orphan newsboy, who becomes his companion.

Stricken with illness, the young painter gradually loses his strength until he is a mere shadow of his former self, when at last discovered by the other man, who realizes that the heroine’s heart is given to the young painter. Alas, the illness has progressed too far and the painter passes away surrounded by those he loves and who love him. The final scene where his soul leaves its mortal tenement and follows the master, is one of great beauty and pathos. The entire production is beautifully directed and inspired by lofty sentiment and exquisite ideals.

Around the story of the making of the first American flag Henry A. Du Souchet has written a patriotic drama of Revolutionary days which will always meet with popular approval. The tricks of suspense to hold the interest, such as the rider with the pardon to save the falsely accused spy at the last moment, are convincingly staged and acted, and only the most critical of audiences will fail to be moved by the action, which has many good moments. The tale moves swiftly and is exciting at all times. Moreover, it is carefully appointed as to Colonial dress and scenes and the large number of exteriors required are well chosen. Picturesque interiors have been furnished.

Alice Brady, as the patriotic Betsy Ross, appears in an emotional role, and is entirely satisfactory. The principal support is in the hands of John Bowers, Lillian Cook, and Frank Mayo, all of whom are well cast. In addition, George MacQuarrie in make-up and in acting is excellent as George Washington.

“Betsy Ross” is recommended for all. Its patriotic theme and Revolutionary setting will appeal especially to young Americans.

8009 Code SABUR The Heart of a Hero World

Featuring Robert Warwick and Gail Kane

A visualization of the Life of Nathan Hale, founded on the play, “Nathan Hale,” by Clyde Fitch.

“The Heart of a Hero,” a story which once seen will never be forgotten. Founded on the events we never tire of hearing and reading about, it describes the dangers and worries of those brave souls who made possible our present day prosperity. It begins at the peaceful New England schoolhouse where Nathan Hale is engaged. The industrious people of the time are presented at work and play. Then rapidly the action changes and the disension with England begins to assume large proportions. We are now carried through the days when to pledge allegiance to the Colonists meant practically gambling away one’s life. The success of their perseverance is responsible for our present preeminence as a Nation. Though showing extensively the events which transpired, the play follows chiefly the life of Nathan Hale up to the point where he rendered his immortal speech, “I only regret that I have but one life to give for my country.”

The story is full of self-sacrifice. Robert Warwick makes of Nathan Hale a character you will always remember. His sweetheart, Alice, as played by Gail Kane, will have your entire sympathy and admiration for her devotion both to him and to her country’s cause.

Her pride of over a century ago is shared today by all true Americans. Nathan Hale is a character which will always be an inspiration to his compatriots to accomplish “big things.”

Were it not for just such noble patriots as Nathan Hale, the present day United States would not be in existence. You will be given an opportunity to see just how great were the hardships our forefathers had to undergo in order that today we might be a free nation.

Jed Bascom is a decidedly original type of Town Marshal, whose faith in his fellow-man causes him to take some rather startling methods of dealing with a gang of safe-blowers who visit his small country town. He successfully apprehends one of the trio, who had escaped arrest at the hands of the sheriff where the crime was committed. Instead of sending this young man to prison he places him upon his honor to reform.

Two years later, now as a trusted employee of the local lumber company this former criminal is approached by his two companions in the last raid, who have meanwhile served time for that crime. They threaten to expose him if he interferes with their attempt to rob the office of his employers. In despair he goes to the Marshal and tells him of his dilemma. By an original method of procedure, the Marshal handles the situation in such a way that these other two criminals are reformed just as effectually as the first one.

There is a little thread of romance running thru the story, which is a very pleasing one and of the type of which we have altogether too few in the motion picture field. Recommended for any and every audience.

Corporal Campbell of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police is stationed near the outpost of the Beacon Bay Fur Trading Post at Rupert, Canada, and is in love with Mary, the daughter of Tim McDuff, manager of the Trading Company's Store.

There is a big dance at the Main Post Quarters, a fact which is taken advantage of by Hall, the traveling representative of the Fur Company, and his accomplice, to rob the company's safe. The theft is discovered during the dance, and Hall accuses Mary's father of having taken the money. Corporal Campbell is called upon to arrest him, and does so in order to throw the real thieves off their guard by making them believe he thinks McDuff guilty.

In quick succession, however, things happen to confirm Campbell's belief that Hall himself and his accomplice are the guilty ones. He therefore plans a trick which shows them up, and after a thrilling fight captures both of the outlaws.

Superb horsemanship, skillful strategy, quick wits, physical prowess are all called into play in "Tricked."

This is a picture which is different. We cannot do better than quote from an article in "The Ladies' Home Journal" entitled, "When the Movies Are Good":

"I have just seen a motion picture which in addition to being genuinely interesting has also a really high degree of artistry.

'Bill' is an adaptation of Anatole France's 'Craniquebille.' It is the saga of an old fruit vender who doesn't understand much of the world and against whom the world beats pitilessly. He is misunderstood, arrested, tried. He has lost his friends. He tries to go back to jail where he was comfortable. When he wants to be arrested, they refuse to arrest him. What a strange life, to be sure. A simple piece of character acting finely presented.

'It has a great human appeal, which is more far-reaching than any sex appeal, or heart interest, or suspense. 'Bill' has an instinct for justice and he sees it meted out whenever he can in his small circle, particularly to the newspaper boy and his dog.

'Alas, he never encounters justice for himself—therein lies the tragedy and the climax.'

Featuring Claire Adams, Fred Huntley, Walter McGail and Rin-tin-tin, the Wolf-dog

In the far north of Canada is situated "Caribou," a fur trading post. Here live old McTavish and his daughter Felice, "Shad" Galloway, an unscrupulous man and factor of the post. "The Fox," a renegade Indian, and Gabrielle Dupree, trapper and dog-sledge driver, who is in love with Felice.

Previous to the events in the story a blooded puppy being transported through the wilds in a crate fastened to a dog sledge had been dropped and lost. Later, adopted by a pack of wolves, he grew up as a member of the pack though he surpassed them all in strength and cunning.

Galloway, regarding Felice with covetous eyes, orders Gabrielle to go to Skagway with a valuable load of furs, but sends the Fox ahead to kill him and steal the furs. The Fox shoots Gabrielle, but the latter rolls down a snow bank and crawls away badly wounded while the Fox is hiding the furs. In the following blizzard he is found by wolves who are about to tear him to pieces when Rin-tin-tin, the wolf-dog, arrives and fights the pack leader for the prey. He kills the wolf and then starts for Gabrielle, who, weak from his wound, fights feebly and falls in a faint. The dog leaps upon him, but suddenly instinct—the inborn instinct of his ancestors—tells him that this is Man, his friend. And so instead of hurting him he stays near to guard him. Later the Fox returns to make sure that Gabrielle is dead and seeing him alive shoots at him again. He is about to finish him with a knife when the dog leaps to the attack and almost kills him before the Fox succeeds in making his escape.

How Gabrielle finally succeeds in making his way back to the post; how Galloway again attempts to injure him; how the dog and the Fox again meet in deadly encounter; how the net of justice gradually tightens about Galloway; how the dog finally kills the Fox and brings about the capture of Galloway and the happy union of Gabrielle and Felice, will have to be seen to be appreciated. It’s the greatest dog story ever written, the hero is a magnificent animal with almost human intelligence. And the ending—another surprise—will also delight you. A clean, fine, thrilling and satisfying picture that will delight every audience.

A Screen Classic showing the triumph of supreme Christian Faith.

David Graham, whose father was killed in the great coal mine, is a boy of deep religious feeling to which he gives expression in Sunday meetings of the children who listen spellbound to his boyish sermons until a bad boy shatters their faith because David cannot perform the miracle of making a deaf and dumb girl talk through the faith he expounds.

He is educated by the mine owner and accepts the pastorate of a fashionable church in the city. He is deeply in love with the mine owner’s daughter who reciprocates his affection, but his conscience continually urges him to go back to his people of the mines.

The miners feel that proper precautions are not being taken for their safety and send a delegation which interrupts a reception being given in the city by the mine owner. David, who is a guest, takes the part of the miner delegation in an effort to persuade the owner to improve the conditions in his mine. Unsuccessful in this, he leaves the city and goes back to take his place among the miners just as a cave-in at the mine occurs.

Then follows a long series of tremendously dramatic scenes in the mine, showing those imprisoned gradually succumbing to the lack of air and the frantic efforts of the rescuers extending over many hours of time to release them. No stronger sustained suspense can be imagined than is portrayed during this trying ordeal. Its effect upon the families of the miners, upon the officers and owner of the mine and upon the workers, is heart-gripping to every spectator. The final rescue finds hardly a dry eye in the audience.

The supreme thrill comes when the miners move in force to attack the office and the owner. David Graham pleads from the doorway for peaceful methods

*Featuring Jackie Coogan, Doris May, Wheeler Oakman and Raymond Hatton
*Titles by Irvin S. Cobb

In this picture, adapted from the book of the same title, Jackie plays the part of an almost incorrigible but utterly lovable little scamp who annoys the grocer, enrages his father and frightens his loving mother.

The story opens with Jackie releasing the man-eating lion from his cage in the circus under the mistaken impression that the lion, being a man-eater, would be indifferent to lunching on a little boy. Here we get a good thrill at the very beginning of the story, and are prepared for the series of highly diverting incidents which follow in rapid succession. Jackie is seen to be lunching continuously but indiscriminately on prunes, ice cream, dried apples, dill pickles, bananas, cheese, etc., and for some inexplicable reason accumulates a "tummy ache" from the mixture. At home and in bed, upon being assured by the doctor that he will not die if he takes the Castor Oil, he begs the doctor to take away the Castor Oil and let him die in peace.

The number of escapades in which Jackie engages are too numerous to be mentioned here, but probably the star performance is capturing a bottle full of ants which are carefully domiciled in his father's lumbago pad just before that worthy puts on the pad to go to church.

Justice can hardly be done to this comedy drama in a printed description and it must be seen to be thoroughly appreciated and enjoyed.

Our genial friend the town marshal, Jed Bascombe, has been reading several books on "How to Become a Detective." The desire to masquerade and lose our identity is innate with most of us and Jed buys some professional disguises from a Mail Order Theatrical Equipment House. Then he proceeds to make up as a tramp and nearly frightens his little friend the milliner, Mary Allen, out of her wits. She calls up the town marshal's office and learns that the supposed tramp is her friend, Jed.

In the meantime the central telephone girls have spread the news that a tramp is lurking around, and a number of the citizens hastily arm themselves with sticks and stones and proceed in quest of him. They find him at the back door of Mary's house where he has just called to show her his very effective disguise. Mary has told them of the fact, but they decide to play a practical joke on Jed, which they proceed to do to his extreme anguish and the spectator's enjoyment. After threatening to tar and feather him and even lynch him they finally decide to run him out of town. In despair he seeks refuge in a freight car, only to be landed unexpectedly in another town where he is promptly arrested.

Little Jackie Blair, a youngster whose father had died in France, started for America with his mother, but two days out she also died and the little fellow arrived in this country alone.

By a strange accident Jackie eludes the Immigration Officers and finds himself on the streets of New York where he recognizes an old sailor, Cap'n Bill, whom he had seen on the pier, and whom he follows to his cheap rooms in spite of the Cap'n's efforts to drive him away.

Mrs. J. Livingston Blair, his wealthy grandmother, receives a letter from Jackie's mother, written just before they sailed, saying she is bringing Jackie to this country. The Grandmother immediately starts a search for Jackie, but he has disappeared from the pier and all efforts to find him seem useless.

Meanwhile the Cap'n, out of work, has been taken sick and Jackie makes valiant efforts to care for him. In spite of himself, the Cap'n cannot help loving the boy.

Then a strange chain of circumstances which end in Jackie's pursuit to the Cap'n's rooms by a policeman, an immigration officer and his own grandmother results happily. His identity is proven and Jackie goes to live with his grandmother whom he readily persuades to give employment to the old Cap'n as well.

This film is one of the deservedly popular ones featuring this little star whose clever acting throughout will be greatly appreciated by his many admirers. Humor and pathos abound. It is a story for children and for children who have grown up.

Draw Egan is the head of a band of notorious outlaws, who are closely pursued by the sheriff and a large posse. Up hill and down vale, through stupendous mountain passes, ride the outlaws, hotly pursued. At a cabin in the mountains they make their last stand, and a terrific bombardment occurs. The bandits make their escape through a trapdoor. The cowardly member of the band, "Arizona Joe," sneaks out of the background, only to fall into the clutches of the posse.

The band scatters and a little later we see Draw Egan alone maintaining his usual reputation for bravery in a saloon quarrel, where he is narrowly watched by Mr. Buckton, who is looking for a town marshal for the neighboring town of Yellow Dog.

Next we see Draw Egan as the champion of the reform element in the town of Yellow Dog, maintaining law and order in the saloon and closing it on Sunday. He is a model town marshal, but much of the credit of his rule is due to his affection for Myrtle Buckton, the daughter of his sponsor.

"Arizona Joe" escapes from the penitentiary, returns to the town, recognizes the marshal as his former bandit chief and spurred to revenge by the Queen of the Dance Hall (Louise Glaum), who has been plainly snubbed by the marshal, he decides to "show him up" before the town.

Of course, his friends in the Reform League are aghast at this new information, but the marshal, while admitting his identity and expressing his willingness to "give up" at sundown, expresses his intention of holding office long enough to make a prisoner of "Arizona Joe." Joe tries to shoot him from ambush, but fails and is victim of the marshal's unerring aim. After having a few hours to think it over, the Reform League decides that a live town marshal, even if he is an ex-bandit leader, is better than a dead one, or one returned to jail. Therefore, they retain him as marshal and pronounce him friend. The marshal's romance reaches a happy climax, in which we all rejoice.

This is one of William S. Hart's best type of western pictures, and with due tolerance for the bar room and dance hall scenes as typical of a by-gone era, the average audience will heartily appreciate this subject.

The president tried to make Fairbanks accept his proposition. He offered him a good salary to go down to Paragonia and open the mines. But money had no charms as compared to Brooklyn, New York, with its Queensboro subway, its proximity to Coney Island, and its nice neat little haberdashery shops with their breezy Arrow collars, tailored suits and custom shoes.

Just then Douglas saw Alma Rubens. She was playing the role of Senorita Juana de Castille, daughter of the president of Paragonia. Her dark eyes, Spanish beauty, exquisite charms, suggestion of balcony romance and moonlight poetry changed his mind. "I'll go," said Douggie, "I have seen some views of Paragonia that have changed my mind."

From that moment things began to happen. Douglas races after Alma to tropical Paragonia. He finds that revolutions have been tumbling over one another and the old President has been tumbled into prison. There is a very repulsive gentleman by the name of Colonel Gargaras who wishes to marry Senorita Juana de Castille. The marriage is being forced upon her and it looks as though he will win out.

In the meantime Douglas is fomenting plots, digging out prison walls, making love to Senorita Juana way up on the balcony, knocking Central American gentlemen on the head and whirling along at a terrific U. Professor Timmons, a well-meaning but erratic young man, has been appointed school teacher and is welcomed at a reception given in his honor by Mrs. Buck. Little Waldo Buck, her son, is one of the Professor's prospective pupils, and for his innocent appearance, is their ringleader in mischief. His older sister, Diana, is engaged to marry Wales who is jealous if anyone else even speaks to her. Due to Waldo's activities the Professor has several embarrassing experiences at the reception, but he does meet Diana who is kind to him. With the opening of school the Professor's troubles begin in earnest and he is only prevented from resigning by Diana who asks him to "stick it out" for her sake. He then takes his boy pupils on a camping trip which brings him more troubles (to the great amusement of the spectator), and complications are introduced by the escape of a pyromaniac from a local institution, for whom the Professor is at first mistaken and who finally sets fire to the school building. Waldo is trapped in the fire, but is daringly rescued by the Professor who, having gained a point of safety with his burden, promptly faints. Wales seizes the opportunity to carry Waldo to his family and claim credit for the rescue, but Waldo himself recovers consciousness in time to direct the credit where it was really due. Wales leaves abruptly and Diana assumes the difficult role of life-partner to the absent-minded Professor.

An excellent picture. The portrayal of the Professor by the great impersonator, "Chic" Sale, leaves nothing to be desired. This is a refined, modern, comedy-drama of the sort we all want, and is recommended for any audience.

A comedy drama of unusual humor and charm.

Terrence O'Toole is a young Irishman who decides to seek his fortunes in America whence his father has returned after a brief sojourn in the United States some years before. Some very amusing native Irish scenes occur in the beginning of the subject. Later Terry is seen in the capacity of a motorman in a small American city. The president and vice-president of the trolley company are each owners of forty-nine shares of the stock and the balance of control is vested in two other shares belonging to a Mr. Rosenthal, who has disappeared. Terry falls in love with the President's daughter (Doris May) and his suit is advanced by his rescue of her kid brother who is racing the trolley car in a diminutive, but perfect automobile.

Terry's father joins him and contributes very ably to the humor of the story as it expands. One of the funniest specialties in this or any other comedy is a masquerade roller skating carnival in which Terry plays the front legs and an inebriated friend the rear legs of a camel.

Near the end of the story the ownership of the missing certificates is divulged in a dramatic manner and their prospective loss is narrowly averted in a thrilling effort of the senior O'Toole, who is rescued from a burning building by Terry in a thrilling scene of danger that grips every spectator.

A splendid subject combining humor and pathos, comedy and near-tragedy, without a dull moment from start to finish.

Meanwhile Harold had died and Mary brings the baby to the west where she becomes stenographer to a swindler named Bresnahan.

Bresnahan has a horse entered in the big Derby and Carleton enters Mankiller with Denny to ride him. But on the day of the race Bresnahan who has bet on his own horse a lot of money left with him by a client for investment, causes Mankiller to be stolen and hidden. Carleton tells Denny to be in readiness at the track, and then in an aeroplane goes in search of his horse, which he finds at some distance from the race-track. He races for the track where he arrives just as the contestants after two false starts are lining up for the bell.

In spite of his long unscheduled run, Mankiller wins the race. Bresnahan seeking to leave town is arrested. And then Carleton meets Mary and repeats his old question, which this time she answers in the affirmative.

A thrilling story, full of suspense and action and with a happy ending.

Produced in the same Berlin theatre, with its wealth of properties, used by Ernst Lubitsch in his Pola Negri productions. Featuring the star who played the title role in "Deception," "Loves of Pharaoh" and "Quo Vadis."

The story of a terrible tragedy due to jealousy—a drama of terrific power and compelling interest that has held theatregoers spellbound for three centuries. All the wealth of imagery and beauty of conception worthy of the finest traditions in Shakespearean lore are to be found in this unusual motion picture. It is magnificently acted and lavishly staged. A production that no lover of Shakespeare, and no lover of motion pictures should miss seeing.

From its very start this picture moves with a swing and the sensation of suspense is sustained and accentuated to its climax in the end. A thoroughly satisfying Shakespearean screen production.

Washington Irving's famous story in which we find those old friends of our school days, Ichabod Crane, Katrina Van Tassel, Brom Bones and the rest, in a splendid picture which would have pleased Irving himself.

One day in 1790 there arrived in the little town of Sleepy Hollow, a new school master from Niewe Yorke, an awkward uncouth man named Ichabod Crane. He was met by the school committee and citizens and sent to "board around." Thus he met the charming Katrina Van Tassel, daughter of the richest man in the community. But Katrina had many admirers, most favored among them being Abraham Van Brunt or "Brom Bones," a handsome dare-devil of a fellow who regarded Ichabod's arrival in a not-too-friendly manner. Consequently as Ichabod seemed to find favor in Katrina's eyes Brom laid plans for his downfall.

A delightful story, clean, cleverly acted and of both literary and historical interest. It is recommended for any audience.

Featuring Sir J. Forbes-Robertson in Jerome K. Jerome's famous story

To a dingy and sordid boarding house in gloomy Bloomsbury Square, London, peopled with mean-spirited and unhappy failures, comes a Stranger, seeking quarters.

The Stranger, by refusing to see in the scheming landlady and her quarrelsome boarders anything but the best, succeeds in calling out the best in each, and one after the other they become morally rehabilitated. Before his kind smile and understanding words their bickerings and meanness disappear. They grow more tolerant toward each other, and at the same time strangely happy.

Finally, when love has replaced hatred as the governing spirit of the household, the Stranger passes from their midst as mysteriously as he came.

The story is in a large measure symbolical, but aside from its spiritual message it has many humorous and dramatic qualities.

The screen is fortunate to have secured for the Stranger, Sir J. Forbes-Robertson, the actor, who created the role and for eight successive seasons played it in Great Britain, the United States and Canada.

Kismet has been called the one thousand and second story of the Arabian Nights. It is a tale of the day of days in the life of Hajj, the beggar, who dwelt in Bagdad in the first year of the reign of the Caliph Abdullah and begged upon the stone of the door of the Mosque of Carpenters.

Between the rise of the sun and the coming of night Hajj rises from the dust to affluence and returns again to the dust from whence he came. He meets his mortal enemy and slays him in the prison where they are thrown together. He fights the Wazir of Bagdad, son of his mortal enemy, and drowns him in the pool of his own magnificent harem, at the same time rescuing his daughter from the Wazir's clutches. He is presented to the Caliph, "the Shadow of Allah upon Earth" to whom his daughter Marsinah is married at sunset.

It is a tale wild, improbable, barbaric, romantic; a tale brim full of color, drama, comedy, adventure, intrigue, love-making and suspense.

For twenty years Dan McDowell had sat on the driver's seat of Engine 27 and urged his three horses to the fires. Then came the motor apparatus. The horses were sold as so much junk. Dan's hands were too old to master the steering wheel. He was discarded, retired at a small pension.

Johnnie, his son, was studying medicine. To keep him in college required money. Dan, after a weary search, was reduced to digging in the streets. There he met "Bullet," the old fire-horse, pulling the dirt-cart. Man and beast—discarded as useless.

Old McDowell's humiliation was complete when he was accused of stealing the old fire-horse he loved so well. Then he was exonerated and released from prison just in time to hurry to a big fire. On his way he met "Bullet," again broken loose, and following the habit of years in answering the clanging bell.

Arrived at the fire Dan found that his son Johnnie and June, his sweetheart, were imprisoned beneath a pile of debris. Mounting "Bullet," Dan rushed through the flames and the horse, hitched to the debris, freed the prisoners.

Johnnie was able to finish his medical course and marry the girl of his heart while Dan found happiness in his appointment as guardian of the ex-fire horses who had been pensioned and placed under his care for the remainder of their days.

A grippingly dramatic story of American home life; of the devotion and sacrifices of a father; of the loyalty and fealty of a son. Combined with its tense drama and tender romance are some of the greatest thrills ever yet seen upon the screen.

Lying on the rails a beautiful young woman is pinioned under a fallen horse, directly in the path of the oncoming express train in charge of his father, Bill Buckley, a veteran engineer. Paralleling the railroad train is an automobile in which Bernard Miller, the President of the railroad, is riding. The two men have long been friends and in a few minutes a race is on. Little did Miller realize that his daughter, Esther, was lying prostrate on the rails.

The young switch-tender, Johnny Buckley, saves the girl, and the romance between the president's daughter and the engineer's son begins. Raymond McKim, secretary to the president, a man with an unsavory past, loves Esther, but his love is not returned. He seeks to force his attentions upon her, but she is rescued by Johnny.

In the engine cab with Bill Buckley is his new fireman, Jack Smith, who holds a grudge against him. To get his engineer in wrong, he changes the signal lights at the main line switch. Acting on his train orders, Johnny tries to stop his father's train at the main line, but finds, to his terror, that he has given the green signal to go ahead.

Johnny jumps astride his horse, races to the nearby forest and sets fire to the dry bush. In an instant the entire mountainside is ablaze and a living wall of fire sweeping toward the railroad.

Dave Marshall is the son of a big ranchman. Thru the plotting of Luke Severn, who is head of a smuggling band on the Mexican border, he is placed in a wrong light before Don Juan Estrada, a wealthy Spanish gentleman, and his daughter, Carmelita. Early in the story, Marshall is forced by Severn's cruelty to fight for the protection of the horse Silver King. He wins the fight and the horse. Later the horse is stolen by Severn and sold for "bull bait."

The big scene is set in a Mexican bull-fight arena where Silver King is about to be gored by a ferocious bull. But Marshall trailing his beloved horse finally finds him in the arena and hurdling down over tiers of boxes and leaping across the heads of the crowd he grapples with the bull and finally throws him and saves the horse. He also wins the love of Carmelita whom he had previously rescued from a runaway stage coach. Later Severn is branded as the leader of the smugglers.

In the high Sierras, a forest fire drives the wolves out into the cattle country, and the country rises in arms to kill off the marauders. The most elusive and most dangerous of the wolves is Lobo (Rin-Tin-Tin). A price is upon his head and the rangers scour the country for a shot at him.

Lobo gets a thorn in his foot and, suffering intensely, he turns for aid to David Weston, a young prospector. David is out working on a claim, whose samples show a rich deposit of borax. He is alone in his cabin far off in the country. The lone wolf, relieved of the thorn, stays on at the cabin as a companion and affectionate friend.

David's sweetheart, May Barstow, daughter of one of the ranchers, comes to visit the prospector and recognizes the wolf as one who had given her and Alkali Bill, the ranch cook, a terrific fright on the night of the forest fire. But, finding Lobo gentle and affectionate, she agrees with David to disguise him to protect him from attack.

Horton, meanwhile, has been interested in the borax samples that young David had shown him. David is on his way to post his claim when he meets Horton in a storm in the night. They have a terrific fight. Horton leaves his opponent for dead and makes off to town with the claim to post it for himself.

Lobo, on the track of his master, finds him lying wounded. Unable to move himself, David writes a message for May Barstow on his canteen and gives it to the wolf to bring to the girl at the ranch. Lobo, running through the fire of cowboys who have been tracking him, gets to the ranch, but there he faces certain death from the ranger's guns.

May, who has escaped from a brutal attack by Horton, pleads to let the wolf have a chance. The ranchers, with the girl and her father, approach the wolf and May gets the message. She leads a rescue party to David's cabin. But Lobo races swiftly far in advance of the ranchers and finds Horton again attacking his master. This time Lobo makes an end to the villain. From the play by Oscar Wilde; directed by Ernst Lubitsch, featuring Irene Rich, May McAvoy, Ronald Colman and Bert Lytell

Mrs. Erlynne (played by Irene Rich), a woman of many indiscretions, has returned to England after many years' sojourn abroad. Wishing to take her place in fashionable society, she hits upon the birthday party of Lady Windermere, her daughter, as a suitable occasion.

Lady Windermere (May McAvoy) is ignorant of the fact that Mrs. Erlynne is her mother, and when Lord Windermere (Bert Lytell), under pressure from Mrs. Erlynne, asks his wife to invite her, she refuses. By mistake Mrs. Erlynne comes anyway and meets with a frigid reception. Her charm soon wins over the guests and she fascinates Lord Augustus (Edward Martindel) in spite of himself.

Later Lord Darlington (Ronald Coleman), a friend of the Windermeres, in love with Lady Windermere, discovers that Lord Windermere has visited Mrs. Erlynne. Darlington tells Lady Windermere that her husband is unfaithful and persuades her to elope with him. She leaves for his apartment only to find there Mrs. Erlynne, who had discovered her plans and wants to make her go home. They quarrel, but when Darlington, Windermere and a number of other gentlemen arrive unexpectedly, they both are driven to hiding.

Windermere sees his wife's fan and accuses Darlington of having his wife there. He is about to search the place when Mrs. Erlynne sacrifices her future by appearing and claiming the fan.

Still ignorant of their relationship, Lady Windermere appreciates the sacrifice and gladly returns to her husband. It is he who now condemns Mrs. Erlynne and she who champions her cause.

Lord Augustus has been unable to forget the fascinating Mrs. Erlynne despite the disgrace of finding her in Darlington's apartment. She has also fallen in love with him and at last he proposes to her. Finally she finds happiness in his love and the knowledge that, without revealing her relationship, she has saved her daughter from the mistake that had ruined her own life.

A remarkably clever screen adaptation of a comedy-drama which has had continuous popularity on the legitimate stage for over thirty years.

What good is a legacy of a million dollars to a woman hater, if he must marry a girl he has never has seen in order to get it? Raymond Griffith learns of this inheritance just after he has renounced all women, because a girl he was about to marry left him at the altar.

Taking his valet, Ray seeks seclusion in a Spanish village where he hopes to find few, if any women.

To his great disappointment, women of all kinds seek his company. He is nearly killed by one of them—a pretty girl in a big automobile. His valet tells Ray that this girl, Vera Reynolds, is the one his uncle has selected for him to marry! Ray remarks ecstatically that to marry such a girl would be an easy way to make a million dollars. Vera, who is an heiress, hears the remark and at once denounces him as a fortune hunter.

Stunned by her accusation, Ray tells her that she can have the whole fortune, that he wouldn't have anything to do with any part of it. Learning from his valet that Vera would get the money if he should die, Ray sets out to make away with himself. He tries a gun, but it won't discharge; he resorts to hanging himself from a chandelier, but the fixture pulls out of the ceiling. Other attempts are equally fruitless.

As a last resort, Ray hires Beery to slay him. Then Ray and Vera make up, so when Ray sees Beery approaching, he flees through the streets. Beery catches him, only to tell him that he can't carry out the bargain, as he has reformed!

Adolphe Menjou is a bored king. His ministers advise him a large loan is necessary to save the country. There are only two ways of getting it, either through an alliance with the House of Slavonia, or through a lease of oil lands to American capitalists. The king decides to try America.

At the king's hotel in New York, while Arthur Trent and his fellow financiers are waiting for the king to arise so they can discuss the proposed oil lease, he slips out to Times Square, sees a sightseeing bus marked "Coney Island" and boards it.

By a strange coincidence, at Coney Island, the king meets again Gladys Humphreys, an American girl he had previously met in Paris, and is introduced to her friend, John Rockland. John invites him to visit him at his home in Little Falls and the king accepts.

Later at the hotel, the king orders his secretary to make the arrangements and the secretary phones John the names of the king's retinue. John is amazed, but decides to put on a big reception. He turns out the local Boy Scouts, the girls from Aunt Tabitha's school, the Mayor—in fact all the local citizens of prominence including the undertaker. It is a gala occasion.

Gladys is there, but Trent also shows up to negotiate the oil lease and interrupts the king's efforts to be alone with her. He makes her promise to meet him on a second story balcony. She does, but Trent discovers them and they are locked out. Here the king ceases to be a king, and becomes only an earnest young man romantically in love. He shields Gladys from the night air with his dress coat. When the door is opened next morning he protects her reputation by signing Trent's lease as the price of Trent's silence. Then he bids the girl farewell with deep emotion after telling her he must go on "Kinging."

It's a perfect role for Menjou. He has the temperament, the air of blase sophistication, the finished type of acting necessary for it. It is one of his greatest efforts.

Maritana, a beautiful Spanish gypsy dancing girl, goes in search of Don Cesar de Bazan of whose prodigality she has heard much. She finds him at a banquet given by him to his friends and tells his fortune, which she predicts is one of evil.

Don Cesar distributes money among gypsies, one of whom steals his purse. When Maritana hears of this she battles with the thief, is badly wounded, but forcing the purse from him restores it to Don Cesar. The latter's creditors swoop down upon him and he flees.

The King's soldiers capture Maritana and in rescuing her, Don Cesar kills a captain, for which offense he is sentenced to death. Through the aid of a wily courtier, Don Cesar and Maritana are married en masque, the design being to have Don Cesar shot and his bride carried to the King who is enamored of her. Don Cesar is providentially saved by one of Maritana's supporters who substitutes bread pellets for the bullets in the guns of the firing squad.
Eventually the King's friendship for Don Cesar and his bride is won and all ends happily.

Featuring J. Warren Kerrigan, Lois Wilson, Ernest Torrence, Tully Marshall, Charles Ogle and Alan Hale

Way back in 1848, just before the discovery of gold in California, a huge wagon-train of Pioneers who had gathered on the banks of the Mississippi at Westport, set out to take up homestead sites in Oregon. The trip was fraught with great danger. Not only were these hardy adventurers shut off from all supplies and out of communication with the more civilized East, but Indian attacks, prairie fires and the fording of rivers, added to the terrors of the overland journey.

Will Banion, hero of the story, is under a cloud because Sam Woodhull, who was with him in the army during the war with Mexico, has accused him of theft. Molly Wingate, the heroine, is loved by both Woodhull and Banion. She favors Banion, but cannot marry him while under suspicion. During the journey, Banion saves Molly's life several times. Their romance is not only beautiful but inspiring.

Woodhull becomes Banion's enemy. He and Will have a thrilling fight, in which Banion proves to be the better man. He spares Sam's life and later even rescues him, but Woodhull's hatred continues until he meets his death while attempting to shoot Banion.

On the way there comes news of the discovery of gold in California and the wagon-train separates, Banion and part of the wagons going south, and the others continuing north into Oregon. Molly remains with the Oregon contingent and after Banion's departure, learns of his innocence of the theft charged to him. And a few months later, Banion with plenty of California gold, follows Molly into Oregon.

The picture teems with novel scenes, all the events, including a great Buffalo hunt, having been re-created with careful attention to realism and historical exactness.

There has never been such a production. It is a masterpiece which no one can now afford to miss seeing, and which already seen, can well be seen again.

His portion is quickly squandered in idle and luxurious living and Tisha, vexed that he is unable to continue to buy her jewels she craves, transfers her affections to another. Jealous and desperate, Jether yields to the tempting of Tola to play with loaded dice, is discovered, humiliated and reviled.

A dreadful famine follows—Jether is nearly starved. Finally, after many tribulations, the humble prodigal returns to his home—changed, ill, in rags. Tidings of Jether's return are brought to Jesse, but he is unable to forgive his son until the intervention of the mother brings about a reconciliation and the feast is spread to celebrate the wanderer's return and his betrothal to Naomi.

The director has made the most of this stirring theme and no one can fail to be impressed, not only by the excellence of the cast and the sincerity of the portrayal, but by the beauty and lavishness of the settings. It is a masterly production and will have a universal appeal.

Featuring Ernest Torrence, Cullen Landis, Mary Astor, Noah Beery and Phyllis Haver

After years of absence at school in the North, Tom Rumford returns to his Southern home where he becomes engaged to Elvira, his father's ward. Major Patterson, Elvira's disappointed suitor, challenges Tom to a duel without cause. Tom, to whom all fighting is repulsive, can see no reason for fighting for the hand of a girl he has already won and refuses the challenge, thereby creating a reputation for cowardice. His stern old father, mortally offended, drives him from home; Elvira returns his ring and the rest of the family spurn him—all but Lucy, Elvira's younger sister, who approves of his refusal to fight.

Insulted and scorned, Tom travels down the Mississippi and into the New Orleans gambling house of "General" Orlando Jackson, where he sees and shrinks from more fighting. At this point, "Captain" Blackie, a notorious fighter and killer, feared by all the other men in the place, infuriates Tom by his insults and Tom suddenly sees red. Heedless of results, he amazes all by the fury of his attack on Captain Blackie—and by its results—for Captain Blackie is ingloriously vanquished.

Following this encounter, Tom becomes "the notorious Colonel Blake," with a reputation as the most dangerous gambler on the river. Eventually fate brings him back to his old home town, where Elvira has become the unhappy wife of Major Patterson, now overseer of her father's estate, which is badly run down and heavily mortgaged. Dramatically reappearing incognito, Tom first awes and humbles the "brave" men of the family and then reveals his identity. Lucy, who has been waiting and hoping for Tom's return, is disappointed at finding him apparently so changed, but when he explains to her that he has never had but the one fight and that his reputation is all founded on that and the fearlessness that has now become second nature, everything ends happily.

Thrills and laughter alternate and abound in this unusual story, extremely well told, of the days when little or no offense called for a fight to defend one's "honor."

Twenty years back, John McDow, Captain of the lightship "Relief" that guards Great Barrier Reef, disobeyed the code of the sea when he weighed anchor and took his ship to rescue the girl he loved, from a schooner being battered in a storm. While the lightship was off its station, a big passenger liner was wrecked on the reef.

Bruce McDow, John's son, grows to manhood, a sufferer from his father's breach of trust. He is pointed out as a coward and the son of a coward, and believes himself to be just that. He loves Jennie Hayden, daughter of Captain Hayden, commander of the crack steamer "Northern." Hayden hates the name of McDow, but Jennie manages to obtain for Bruce a commission as first mate on the lightship "Relief," although the town is up in arms against him.

Jennie goes for a cruise on the yacht "Neroid." The captain of the lightship is transferred and Bruce is left in command. That night a great storm comes up. The "Northern" is crawling in with a broken propeller shaft. Suddenly, in the midst of the terrible gale, a wireless message comes from the "Neroid" in distress near the reef. The lightship, if it goes to the rescue, is the only thing that can save Jennie Hayden. And the "Northern," with 400 passengers, is groping her way toward the Reef, dependent on the light! Bruce is faced by the same problem as was his father, twenty years before.

But he solves it differently. The lightship remains at the station, and Bruce, alone in a launch, goes through those mountainous waves to the rescue of the passengers on the "Neroid." You will hold your breath as you watch him fighting his way.

One of the greatest storm pictures ever filmed and more intensely dramatic. You will see ships buffeted by mountainous waves, a little yacht riding the tempest like a cockle-shell until it grinds itself to pieces against a reef, a cringing coward become a red-blooded, fighting he-man and a happy, satisfactory ending.

Florence Vidor, a Grand Duchess, has been forced to flee to Paris with a vestige of her court, following the rise of revolutionists in her home country.

Attending a theatre one evening, she is seen by Adolphe Menjou, a millionaire Beau Brummel, who immediately becomes infatuated with her. When his attempts to meet her are coldly ignored, he engages a suite of rooms directly below those she occupies at a prominent hotel, and bribes an old waiter to allow him to act as a floor-waiter in her suite. In his efforts as waiter, however, he fails miserably and ends by spilling a pitcher of cream over her.

Angered by his clumsiness, the Duchess determines to punish him, first making him a member of her personal staff, then proceeding to make his life miserable by loading him with every unpleasant task from washing her dog to shining her shoes.

One evening, unable to sleep, she orders some champagne. Menjou brings a bottle and two glasses. The Duchess demands an explanation and Menjou discloses his love for her. Although the idea of falling in love with a servant is unthinkable to the Duchess, Menjou's love-making finally sweeps away all barriers, and he takes her into his arms—just as the court members enter the room! The Duchess, though realizing she is in love with the waiter, is forced to repulse him out of mortified pride.

The humorous and exciting events that bring the story to a stirring climax and eventually lead to a happy ending, furnish delightful entertainment.

As the wealthy boulevardier, who masquerades as a waiter, Menjou is his own suave, sophisticated self. It is for him a perfect role and he plays it with the smoothness and the subtlety that stamps the finished actor.

Mary Brian gets Detective Riff Swanson and Shorty McGee, a burglar, to enlist in the army during the hectic days of 1917. And she does it by vamping each of them, unknown to the other, just in order to fill a quota of 25 men. For her father has promised her that if she enlists 25 men, she can go to France as a war worker.

Beery and Hatton, enemies in civil life, are buddies in the great A. E. F. in France. They are in a company commanded by Mary's brother. Each secretly believes himself engaged to Mary.

Of course it doesn't take very long for them to get thrown into the guardhouse. Each appeals to Mary's brother on the ground that he's a prospective brother-in-law. The captain goes right to Mary and tells her to set them right. But meanwhile Hatton's old profession comes in handy. He picks the lock, they outwit the M. P.'s and take refuge in a French wine shop, presided over by a pretty barmaid. When they stagger out, they seek a convenient place to sleep—and find it is an army provision truck.

And the truck goes to the front!

Beery and Hatton don't look like "chow" to a bunch of hungry doughboys in the front-line trenches and the pair make their get-away, only to find that, instead of running to the rear, they are out in No Man's Land.

The ensuing scenes are a "wow." The air raid, inspection, and especially the scenes with the tank in No Man's Land, are among the funniest ever filmed. The picture starts with a chuckle and works into laughter that continues right through to the end. It is remarkable in that almost every scene of the picture contains a laugh.

As a pair of dumb doughboys, who get into all the trouble possible in the army, Beery and Hatton win first honors. If it hurts you to laugh, don't expose yourself to the mercies of this picture. "Behind the Front" will chase the gloom off the face of the most confirmed pessimist.

8152 Code SEKI Grass Paramount

"Grass" is the story of an exodus into a promised land.

It is the actual picturization of the semi-annual migration of the Baktyari tribe in Persia, going through unbelievable hardships in their combat with nature to obtain grass for their flocks.

These wanderers depend on their cattle for existence. The herds need grass, without which the tribes would perish. The Chief gives the order and the entire tribe sets out on its semi-annual pilgrimage for—life.

Coming to a swirling glacial river which must be crossed, they blow up goat skins, tie them together and make rafts. The women folk, with tents, goats and a great conglomeration of belongings, climb aboard the rafts, each with two men furiously paddling at its bow.

Then the flocks and herds are dragged or driven into the water, until the current seizes them and they are swept off to swim or be sucked under. Soon the scene is one continuous procession of rafts and dots—each dot the head of some struggling or drowning animal. No more stirring sight has ever been seen by human eyes.

Through barren countries without trails, up heart-breaking mountains, the barefooted and poorly clad men, knee-deep in snow and ice, break trails for the older people and the very young.

This is not fiction, not the re-enacting of a historical event, but the actual breath-taking struggle itself.

In all the world, only three white people have ever seen this marvelous depiction of elemental life and mighty courage. Here are 50,000 natives and 500,000 cattle—struggling, fighting for their very existence.

For 48 days the fight continues, until finally reaching the top of the last mountain, the tribe see below them the fertile plains covered with life-giving grass. The most unusual picture ever made and one that holds the audience spellbound to the very end.

8153 Code SEKO Hands Up Paramount

Featuring Raymond Griffith, Montagu Love, Marion Nixon, Virginia Lee Corbin and Mack Swain

Raymond Griffith plays the role of the hero, a Confederate spy. His general tells him he must go west to Virginia City, the source of the Union’s war finances, and divert the next wagon train of gold to the South.

His experiences on route to the western city are exciting and varied, as he becomes the central figure in holdups, Indian battles and love affairs. He falls in love with two sisters, a brunette and a blonde, each of whom also falls in love with him. It is a surprising triangle, but not difficult for the clever lover.

In obtaining the gold, Griffith is arrested for highway robbery. He reveals his identity as a member of the Confederate Army, expecting to be held merely as a prisoner of war. He is then informed that the war is over and that he is just a common robber. As he is about to make a quick exit from this world through hasty western justice, the girls save him.

The picture is full of hilarious situations. Griffith will make you laugh, chuckle, grin and roar. An original story, with a combination of Civil War and western backgrounds, in which Griffith’s rip-roaring adventures as a Confederate spy seem to prove that Sherman was wrong about war.

8154 Code SEKU The Lucky Devil Paramount

Featuring Richard Dix, Esther Ralston and Edna May Oliver

William Phelps is a young man who demonstrates auto camping outfits in a store. His longing for the open road is realized when he wins a beautiful speed car at a Charity Bazaar, throws up his job and starts for the great open spaces.

At a tourist camp, he meets a girl and her aunt and falls in love with her—the girl, not the aunt. They mistake him for a notorious wealthy young bounder and leave without a word to him. He follows them all over the country and the rest of the picture deals with the straits he gets into, the money he is fleeced out of, and with his entering his machine in a big auto race for a $10,000 prize.

The race thrills are tremendous. Never has the screen seen the like of them. Cars turn turtle, drivers are thrown out, there are collisions, spills, a fire, skids and hair-breadth escapes, laughs and gasps by the dozen.

Driving his own car because a racing driver whom he had engaged, disappointed him at the last moment, Bill works from eighth to first place, drops back to fifth and gradually works to first again, in spite of underhanded tactics of other drivers. As his car comes down the home stretch, a little child runs out onto the road and in order to avoid hitting her, Bill drives through a fence and all but turns turtle as he comes to a grinding stop. Then he finds that he has stripped all of his gears except the reverse, but undismayed he backs out of the field on to his course again and over the finish line, the winner. And the race was not all he won, for the girl said "Yes" and he and she decided to go on with their tour—together.

8156 Code SEKER "Are Parents People?" Paramount

Featuring Betty Bronson, Florence Vidor, Adolphe Menjou, Andre Beranger and Lawrence Gray

The story of a young girl's efforts to bring about a reconciliation between her parents, who quarrel so much about petty matters that they finally obtain a divorce.

A young doctor friend tells the distracted daughter that parents are people after all and suggests she give them a "mutual worry," which she does in the form of a supposed infatuation for a movie actor. She is expelled from school when pictures and a "mash" note written by her room-mate are found in her room. The mother calls up the husband to tell him all about it. He promises to come right over, really tickled that she has called, for they are both really in love, though separated.

Betty, believing herself to be a most misunderstood young lady, goes to Dr. Dacer's office for advice. He is out and she spends the night there awaiting his return. Her unexplained absence provides the necessary "mutual worry" for the parents and results in a reconciliation.

Meanwhile, Betty's own romance has made rapid progress, and although like her parents, she and the young doctor have quarrelled, everything ends happily.

The story is simple, but because of its intensely human qualities, extremely powerful. It introduces humor without making it too obvious; reveals pathos without begging for sympathy, and develops romance without making it seem unnatural.

In short, it is a delightful picture that will make its impression on the playgoer by gently reaching deep into his own experience and drawing him close to it. 1976 feet—on 5 reels Rental $3.75

8157 Code SEKIR Dancing Mothers Paramount

Featuring Clara Bow, Alice Joyce, Conway Tearle and Norman Trevor

Ethel Westcourt, an attractive, charming woman, is surrounded by wealth and luxury in the great Westcourt home, but is lonely and heart-hungry. There is pathos as she waits through the long hours of many nights for the return of her husband, who finds other women more diverting; and of Kittens, her flapper daughter, whose evenings at the night clubs seem fraught with grave danger.

Kittens meets Jerry Naughton, a fascinating chap, who is mixed up in a sensational divorce suit. Her flirtation with Jerry becomes so brazen and so constant at public places and in his apartment, that Mrs. Westcourt hears of it. Alarmed, she asks her husband to forbid his daughter's seeing Jerry again. But Kittens privately reminds him of his friendship with the flashy Irma, and suggests that "we moderns" stand together against mother's Victorian ideas. And the father is compelled to agree.

Ethel Westcourt, once a brilliant actress, determines to meet this Jerry and fascinate him sufficiently to come between him and her daughter. She goes to a night club and is introduced to Jerry. Many meetings follow. She finds him as attractive as reputed, but possessed of qualities of tenderness and understanding which are not a part of his reputation. Suddenly awakening, she finds herself in love with Jerry, and he with her!

The situation is brought to a climax when mother and daughter, unaware of each other's presence, meet in Jerry's apartment. The husband, aroused to the serious mess he is making of life, renounces Irma, and crashes in on the scene in the apartment. In this dramatic situation, Jerry, a really lovable character, rises to splendid heights, but in the end is unable to patch up the fragments of shattered lives that whirl about him.

Wilful, impulsive and fascinating is Clara Bow as Kittens.

Excerpt from "The Wanderer"

Featuring Greta Nissen, William Collier, Jr., Ernest Torrence and Wallace Beery

Jether, a gullible country lad, has followed Tisha, bewitchingly beautiful priestess of the Goddess Ishtar, to her temple in the great city.

Carried off his feet by her great beauty, and half mad with love, he pleads for her favor. Tisha, clothed in beads and flimsy lace, succumbs to his wooing.

To secure subjects of your own choice—— and there ensues one of the most ardent love scenes ever produced on the silver screen.

For many days Jether lives in a Paradise of which Tisha is the Goddess Supreme.

Then comes the day when Jether's gold is gone, and he is conscious of Tisha's waning love. Driven to desperation he goes to the gaming tables and tries to redeem his fortune with loaded dice. He is discovered and thrown from the gaming room.

That same night, in the midst of a great feast to Ishtar, Tisha orders the gates of the temple thrown open and the populace invited to drink and be merry.

As the pagan revelry, the like of which has not been known since the days of Babylon, is at its height, it is suddenly interrupted by the long-prophesied destruction of the wicked city.

Probably no other scenes in the history of motion pictures are more spectacular than these which depict the destruction of the Temple of Ishtar.

This excerpt was prepared especially for showing at club meetings, lodges and smokers. It contains the most voluptuous scenes eliminated from the Library version of "The Wanderer," together with duplicates of some retained. Exquisitely beautiful, awe-inspiring, and sublimely grand.

8159 Code SEKUR "The Pony Express" Paramount

Featuring Ricardo Cortez, George Bancroft, Ernest Torrence and Betty Compson

A vivid, thrilling story of those turbulent days just prior to the election of President Lincoln, when California was hesitating between North and South.

The exciting inauguration of the pony-express service, and the progress of that first trip westward across the Rockies, will thrill every beholder. Another highlight is an attack upon Julesburg by a band of Indians and the rescue by a regiment of soldiers after the Indians had fired the town.

Every effort has been made to produce an authentic picture. Historical data were obtained from the Congressional Library, and from the state libraries of Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and California. In addition, hundreds of historic relics, souvenirs and rare properties of all kinds were used to faithfully carry out the atmosphere of pioneer days.

In this production is again seen the master hand of James Cruze, director of "The Covered Wagon." Like its predecessor, "The Pony Express" faithfully depicts a crucial period in our national life and a thrilling historic episode. It is sustained in effort, patriotic in conception and heroic in execution.

Rapidly and sorrowfully they acquire vaccinations, throat-swabs, trousers, middies and haircuts, but never a trace of sense or seamanship.

Their lubberly disregard of regulations keeps them in continual difficulties with their exasperated shipmates. They are the greenest gobs that ever lived, bullied by a hard-boiled petty officer and innocently inspiring the cordial dislike of their pompous naval captain (Chester Conklin).

Discovering a spy trying to set fire to their ship, they fight him till all are completely exhausted, only to have their petty officer persecutor come in just in time to get full credit and a medal for bravery. During a night attack by enemy submarines, a stumble causes one of them to discharge a gun prematurely, and they are amazed to learn that the shot was a bull's-eye and that they are to be decorated for patriotism!

Breaks all roar records. As funny a story about the Navy as was "Behind the Front" of the Army—and even richer in comedy. Just enough romance to relieve the hysterical atmosphere and save the audience from complete collapse.

8161 Code SEME Eagle of the Sea Paramount

Featuring Florence Vidor, Ricardo Cortez, Sam DeGrasse and Andre Beranger

This is a thrilling tale of love and adventure—of swashbuckling pirates aboard Spanish galleons flying the skull and cross bones; of quaint New Orleans in 1820; of love in moonlit gardens; of encounters between men-o'-war and merchant ships; the roar of cannon mingled with the pounding of the sea.

It is the romantic story of Jean Lafitte, last of the buccaneers, who, with a price on his head, goes to New Orleans, where, in the role of a gentleman, he wins the love of the beautiful Mlle. Louise Lestrom. His identity discovered, he gathers together his old crew, captures at its dock a vessel being outfitted to rescue Napoleon from St. Helena, and sets forth on a voyage of piracy.

The abduction of Mlle. Lestrom from an American ship, a fight with a Spanish galleon ending with the blowing up of the ship, and a mutiny on his own ship, are but a few of the thrilling episodes in his voyage.

"The Eagle of the Sea" is so full of excitement, thrills and striking action that it is certain to win any audience.

Here is a love story par excellence; a romance on the sea, with full rigged ships and fighting pirates for a background. A sea thriller that will set your nerves a tingle and which you will long remember.

A stage coach—an antiquated affair from our modern point of view, but the accepted vehicle of its day—rattles across the Western plains. Inside, distinguished from the other passengers by her comeliness, sits a young woman who is on her way to join her brother at a ranch dangerously near hostile Indian territory. Attentive to her—so far as he can be under the circumstances—is a young army officer who has been assigned to a military post in the heart of the Indian domain. The Indians are known to be far from peacefully inclined. With such a setting, something is certain to happen!

It happens very soon—and with plenty of action and thrills. An attack on the coach by Indians gives a thrilling chase in which the young officer, Lieutenant Scott, by clever trickery and wonderful riding, thwarts the raiders and brings the stage safely to the post, where he is acclaimed a hero by everyone except Captain Ortwell, his superior officer, who resents having any heroes around the place besides himself.

Of course, Captain Ortwell and Lieutenant Scott are rivals for the affections of the young woman, Jane Logan, who visits the fort. To get his rival at least temporarily, and perhaps permanently, out of the way, Captain Ortwell assigns to Lieutenant Scott the dangerous errand of forestalling an Indian raid, fomented by a treacherous redskin, Scarface, who is actually spying within the fort.

Here is Richard Barthelmess as his movie fans have always wanted to see him, in the kind of a story they have always hoped he would play. As an undergraduate football hero in his college, Dick has been spending a frivolous summer without even noticing that little Barbara, one of the really worth while girls, regards him with secret hero worship. Upon his return to college, Dick finds that his good friend, the football Coach, has married one of the flippant and extravagant “college widows,” who tries unsuccessfully to carry on a former flirtation with Dick, who is disgusted with her.

To gratify her extravagances, the Coach appropriates some football trust funds. On the eve of the big match football game, with exposure imminent, the Coach commits suicide under circumstances which his designing widow distorts into a circumstantial plot involving Dick.

The day of the great game finds Dick in disgrace and despair, playing a poor game at which his mother and Barbara are disappointed spectators. Dick’s mother cleverly exposes the widow’s plot and Dick wins the game with a spectacular drop kick that will delight every spectator as much as it did his classmates.

A splendid play of modern college life, full of football games, fraternity dances, with dramatic action, comedy and pathos, splendidly directed and beautifully presented. One of the finest pictures that this popular star has ever made.

Featuring Rin-Tin-Tin

A picture that will live as long as there are men and women who love dogs. It is the story of a dog faithful to his trust, even when doubt of this faithfulness all but causes his death at the hand of his loving and beloved master. A story that will stir you with its pathos, thrill you with its excitement and astonish you with the almost human acting of the “wonder dog of the movies,” Rin-Tin-Tin.

The background of the picture is the sheep ranching country of the West. Rinty, the sheep herder’s dog, is accused by a neighboring herder of killing lambs belonging to the latter’s flock. Rinty’s owner stoutly denies the accusation—but through circumstantial evidence a strong case is built up against the dog. In the face of the proof of his guilt that is finally submitted, even Rinty’s owner is forced to acknowledge the dog’s apparent guilt.

The law of the range provides but one penalty for the sheep killer—death. Rinty nearly pays dearly for his alleged crime—but through a series of swift and exciting events, involving the rescue of his master’s baby boy, his innocence is proved and instead of being regarded as a “killer” Rinty deservedly becomes a hero and the pride of the ranchers.

Through the death of several intermediate relatives, the beautiful young heroine, in an American boarding school, becomes the Duchess of Saxheim and inherits the family millions.

The obscure little European kingdom of Belgravia is tottering into bankruptcy, aided materially by the extravagances of the handsome young Crown Prince, Caryl. Advised that the only way of saving the monarchy and its finances is a marriage to the Duchess of Saxheim, he consents, but demands a last fling at the pleasures of Paris. Denied sufficient spending money, he takes the ancestral crown with him and raises funds for a wild party. In Paris “Miss Sax” buys the crown from the pawnbroker and when Caryl (incognito) comes to redeem it, they both fall in love at first sight.

Conspiracies of the King’s brother, Boris (Bryant Washburn) first cause the Prince to renounce his title in order to marry for love and later cause the King to abdicate in order to prevent a disastrous revolution. Boris is about to force a marriage with the Duchess, when a clever ruse by Caryl rescues her via state coach, fast automobile and aeroplane.

Ruth Delaney, living with her brother Brian (Carey), a cattleman, is killed by the bandit Aguilar (Kohler). Brian vows vengeance on the murderer, his only clue being some twisted cigarette stubs which the bandit left behind. Disguised as the “Yellow Seal,” a lone bandit, he raids many saloons and gambling houses, stealing nothing, but searching only for twisted cigarette stubs. In this way he comes to the gambling house of Howard Steele, who has already won most of the property of one of his patrons, Don Esteban (Edeson), a ranch owner. Steele wants to marry Esteban’s daughter, Theresa, and hopes by ruining her father to force her to agree. At last Esteban’s luck turns and he wins at the tables, but on the way home he is attacked and robbed by Steele and Aguilar, who divert suspicion by leaving on him the mark of the Yellow Seal, though at the same time Aguilar drops more of his twisted cigarettes.

Meanwhile, the real Yellow Seal has befriended Theresa and fallen in love with her. Learning that he has been accused of the attack on her father, he goes to tell her the truth and there he finds Steele and narrowly escapes capture by the posse who are seeking him.

In order to save her impoverished father, Theresa agrees to marry Steele, but while the wedding is in progress, and guarded by Aguilar, it is interrupted by the Yellow Seal, who seizes the bride and, although wounded, escapes with her.

Events follow quickly and stern justice overtakes both Aguilar and Steele, while the Yellow Seal and Theresa, saved from apparently inescapable death, find happiness in each other’s love.

A budding attachment is nipped by her father (Edeson), who operates a salmon cannery, sending her East and to Europe.

 Braveheart is selected by the tribe to be educated in the East in order to present their case for legal redress, since they have been driven away from their salmon fishing by the cannery people. At college, he becomes the star football hero and when Lillian returns to the college town, their attachment is renewed, but bitterly resented by her rascally brother (Housman), who sells the signals of the football team to their rivals and accuses Braveheart of the treachery. Expelled from college on suspicion, he is judged guilty by his home tribe, branded and cast out, but continues to fight through the courts for the rights of his tribe and finally wins their case before the Supreme Court after an impassioned appeal.

An epic of 1850, graphically portraying an incident in the friendly rivalry between England and the United States for the maritime supremacy of the seas and control of the important Chinese tea trade.

The captains of the rival sailing ships, "Lord of the Isles," and "Yankee Clipper," meet in a Chinese port and, each with a cargo of tea, set sail simultaneously to race to Boston. By a strange chance, Elinor, daughter of the English skipper, and Miljan, her fiance, are on the American ship when the starting signal is given and are obliged to sail with the vessel. On the way, as well as before leaving China, the despicable character of Miljan becomes more and more apparent, as does the love of Boyd, the Yankee captain, for Elinor.

The rival vessels become separated and the "Lord of the Isles" escapes a fierce typhoon which nearly wrecks the "Yankee Clipper." The storm scenes are terrific and will hold any audience spellbound. During the storm, the main water tank springs a leak, losing most of its contents. As a result, the men are put on short rations of water and after a few days mutiny develops, which is quelled by the ship's officers with great difficulty. Miljan is caught after stealing some of the precious supply of water and is summarily dealt with by the crew.

Carrying all possible sail, even to the crew's blankets, the "Yankee Clipper" sights, then overtakes, and finally passes the other ship just as they enter Boston Harbor, thus winning the race and exclusive right to the tea trade. But the Yankee captain won still more, for Elinor agreed to accompany him on future voyages.

Featuring Rod La Rocque, Noah Beery and Jetta Goudal

Rod La Rocque is cast as the unsophisticated youth, raised on a big Australian sheep ranch, who is, by the dying wish of his mother, sent to the Riviera to acquire the polish of modern civilization, which he proceeds to do in a remarkably adaptable manner, assisted to no small extent by the winsome wiles of Jetta Goudal, an exiled Russian princess.

The dark and sinister influence of Noah Beery terrifies the girl and brings gloom to Rod, who has wholly lost his heart to her. She is abducted by conspirators under the orders of Beery, is transported to his island castle and immured in a subterranean dungeon, to which water is admitted. Our hero rushes after her in a motor boat, skillfully vanquishes two guards with his wonderful boomerangs, gains access to the castle, overcomes its master, forces him to open the dungeon, rescues the maiden, consigns the villain to the punishment planned for the heroine, wins his sweetheart and finishes the picture in a blaze of romantic glory.

Beautiful and lavish settings of the Flower Carnival, the glamorous life of the idle rich, living only for pastime, on the sunlit shores of the Mediterranean, are all vividly portrayed to the delighted gaze of every audience.

Featuring Rod LaRocque, Sam DeGrasse and Phyllis Haver

Etienne Gerard (Rod LaRocque), grandson of the keeper of an inn on the Spanish border, is enlisted in Napoleon's army as his reward for aiding the Countess De Launay (Phyllis Haver), a secret service agent, to escape Talleyrand (De Grasse) and reach the Emperor safely with papers giving France cause to declare war against Spain. Later, as Captain Gerard, of the Fighting Eagles, he arouses the enmity of the other officers by boasting of his friendship with Napoleon.

Suddenly Countess De Launay appears and takes him on a secret mission as her lackey, to steal treasonable papers from Talleyrand. They are surprised before they can escape with the papers and the proud Gerard is sent back to Napoleon in a chest, disgraced. The Countess slips the papers in the chest, but when it is opened in front of the Emperor, Gerard is unable to find the hidden papers. He is returned to his regiment in disgrace and sentenced to be shot for being absent without leave.

How he recovers the papers and vindicates himself, even by kidnapping the Emperor, and receives his imperial congratulations and promotion before his chagrined fellow officers, must be seen to be fully appreciated.

Romance, intrigue and suspense are combined in this thrilling story of one of the outstanding eras in history. Recommended for any audience.

Featuring John Mack Brown, Jeanette Loff and Hobart Bosworth

Bill Curtis (Brown) and Herbert Duncan enter Annapolis together and after a brief enmity become close friends. Bill is "girl shy." Herbert is not. During their senior year, Herbert brings his sweetheart, Jeanette, to some of the class dances and she meets Bill, who also falls in love with her. Jealousy between Bill and Herbert develops, as do serious complications resulting from a collision during destroyer maneuvers while Herbert is at the wheel. Herbert, confined to quarters pending an investigation, makes matters worse by leaving and then knocking down a guard who tries to stop him in the dark. Bill, remorseful at having won Jeanette from his friend accepts the blame for the guard incident and Herbert, angry at Bill, refuses to admit his own guilt.

Bill leaves Annapolis rather than tell. Herbert, given "silence" by his

During the war, Rod served as an Ace with the French Flying Corps, saving the life of an enemy flyer, who exchanges revolvers with him. Years later find Rod still a high flyer, known in all the New York night clubs, but broke. Threatened with eviction unless he can pay his rent, he decides to secure some money by turning highwayman and robbing motorists on the road. The very first car contains Sue, and a man from whom she asks Rod’s protection. Rod refrains from robbing the man—of anything but Sue. A charming friendship with her develops.

Believing him to be a real bandit, she tries to reform him. Pawning his revolver, he is mysteriously loaned $200 on it by orders of Haupt, who recognizes it. Rod and Sue secure work together as Russian dancing entertainers in a night club, in which a real hold-up occurs. Sue at first believes Rod to be responsible for it, but to her great relief learns that it was as great a surprise to him as to her. Haupt confesses to leading the hold-up and exonerates Rod, who becomes the husband as well as the hero of Sue.

Hilarious comedy-drama showing the misadventures, afloat and ashore of an Irish cab driver and a Jewish taxi-driver, who are keen rivals ashore, but when at sea become friends as they share in the funniest perils and privations that ever beset two landlubbers away from home.

Sally’s disappointed wealthy suitor invites Sally and her father on a long yachting cruise. Nick, her fiance, is not included but manages to get aboard, where he is imprisoned under the owner’s orders. Sammy and Ted are inadvertently carried to sea and put through the most degrading tasks by the yacht’s irate mate. Their clumsiness is most amusing. In a terrible storm the yacht is wrecked on a cannibal island, which is also the home of monkeys, lions and alligators. Ted and Sammy encounter all three in rapid succession. Captured by cannibals and ordered to choose between death and marrying the chief’s too-buxom daughters, they choose the former, but are rescued just in time by sailors from the U. S. Navy sent in search of the shipwrecked voyagers.

One of the most laughable comedy-dramas ever produced.

Then he learns of the depredations of Ghika, a notorious bandit in Olania and promptly enlists in the Olanian Army to capture him. Adventures begin promptly and follow fast. Rod rescues Lupe Velez from raiding bandits, but both he and she are later captured and taken to Ghika’s inaccessible and picturesque stronghold. His nerve saves Rod from death but he is forced to join the bandits. Ghika plots to take Lupe from Rod and nearly succeeds, but Rod outwits him, takes him prisoner and turns him over to the pursuing soldiers. Meanwhile, to his own surprise, he finds that he too has been captured—by Lupe, who finds in the erstwhile woman-hater an ardent lover.

8180 Code SESA Rex, The Devil Horse Hal Roach

Featuring Rex the Wild Horse, Scouts, Soldiers, and Indians

A small band of pioneers is attacked by Indians, who resent the encroachment of the whites on their buffalo hunting grounds. Young Dave Carson and his colt, Rex, only survive. Rex runs away with a hatred of Indians in his heart.

Six years later, Dave Carson, now Army Scout, saves Marion Morrow, a daughter of the regiment, from the crafty Indian Chief, Prowling Wolf, and a delightful romance ensues.

During this time, the Devil Horse Rex has become a terror to the Indians, but remembers Dave.

Dave, and later Marion, are captured by Prowling Wolf, who attacks the fort after a detachment has left on a false warning. Dave rescues Marion and Rex returns and rescues Marion’s horse “Lady.”

The powder magazine is blown up and the defenders, almost without ammunition, are desperate. Dave and Rex risk their lives, and after a thrilling chase intercept the troops, hastening their return.

Rex seems endowed with human intelligence in his rescues, romance and revenges. He is among horses what Rin-Tin-Tin is among dogs. Thrilling adventure at its best.

abouts. Fuzzy, and later Buddy, deserted to seek him. On learning why his two comrades had deserted, Tex followed. He found Fuzzy out of his mind, Buddy dying and Heckla dead. Tanya was missing. Footsore and weary, Tex and Fuzzy returned with Buddy’s body.

His uncorroborated testimony is not accepted by the court and sentence is about to be pronounced when Tanya is seen and recognized by Fuzzy, during a brief lucid period. A joyful reunion follows, and the sentence—yes, Tex gets what he deserves.

A stirring story of the comradeship and loyalty of men in our far-famed Marine Corps, showing a delightfully human side to the otherwise “hard-boiled” Leathernecks.

Around the Bases

From the "Collegians"

Featuring George Lewis, Dorothy Gulliver and Eddie Phillips

The big event in Calford College’s baseball season—the annual contest with their old rival, Velmar—has arrived.

George, a star athlete, escaping from the girls’ dormitory in girls’ clothes (after being seen by the Dean delivering a box of candy to Dorothy via the window), meets Eddie, an upper class man, who starts a very amusing flirtation, which is to be long remembered by the college—and by Eddie.

Eddie’s animosity for George is further heightened by the latter’s having been chosen to pitch for Calford. He deliberately hits George with a baseball, sending him to the hospital, before the game starts. Hope fades for Calford by the end of the eighth inning, with Eddie pitching wild and the opponents one run ahead.

George revives in time to rally his teammates, and by a brilliant double play and a thrilling home run brings victory for Calford.
